LIVE a DOUBLE LIFE with your Camera

by H. L. SPOONER

WOULD you like to live twice over? This is probably sounds like a question prefacing a treatise on some ultra-scientific problem. Actually it is a simple homely question.

True it is prompted by a Latin quotation which I came across the other day. It runs:— "To be able to enjoy the recollection of one's past life, this is to live twice over."

Most of us would like to—if we could control the things we would recollect.

But a good memory is relentless. It mirrors all the past, pleasant and otherwise.

Only an "artificial memory" will enable us to pick out the bright spots of days gone by.

The only "artificial memory" I know is a camera, and so if you would live twice over become a photographer or—if that sounds too formidable—a snapshotter.

This delightful snap and the one on the right were submitted in a recent Competition at Home.

What is more important is that it could have been taken anywhere. No beautiful surroundings were required for a picture of this type.

The story of one year's prize-winning picture provides another moral.

The man who took it submitted it only because he was urged to by his wife. She wanted a new hat!

Think of it! He won because his wife thought a cash-prize would help her to obtain a much-coveted hat.

And the moral? Do not be a stern critic of your own work—leave the judges to decide! The important thing is always to have your camera with you so that you never miss an opportunity.

Personally, I have seen hundreds of thousands of photographs, and I am told I must get tired of pictures, but I would rather leave half my luggage at home than go away without a camera.

To see a picture and not have a camera is the most distressing experience for any photographer.

A professional golfer or an engineer likes to go away and forget his work, but a photographer—professional or amateur—is always looking for pictures.

If he finds one, and is unprepared, he is a sad, but wiser man. If you have read this far you will probably ask: "Yes, but what sort of picture is likely to win a prize?"

Who can tell? You are the only one who can decide if the incident or scene before you makes a picture.

But, generally speaking, you may take it that the happiest and most effective pictures are the simplest.

Unless you are very lucky, a posed picture of, say, a very young batsman on the beach will not be nearly so effective as an unposed picture of that youthful cricketer snapped when he is unaware of the camera.

I know that the film producer rehearses his cast until sometimes the players are weary, in an effort to make them appear natural before the camera. But so few people are born actors. Subjects for snapshots are to be found everywhere.

Photograph your children, your pets, your friends and even strangers.

Photograph them at home or on holiday.

Any one of those snaps may win you a prize—and they will help you to live twice over!

Cooling Drink

DURING the hot weather summer cups are most popular. In some of these long drinks a dash of alcohol is added, but many people prefer non-alcoholic beverages.

There is always lemonade, orangeade and the various squashes, but if something slightly different is required the following ingredients make a most delicious cooling drink.

The particular mixture given below may be new to some readers.

1½ gills orange juice,
1 dessertspoon lemon juice,
1 oz. sugar,
1 pint ginger ale,
Soda water to taste.

Method: Strain the fruit juice over the sugar in a jug, and leave to stand for three to four hours.

Add the cherries, and pour the ginger ale over the fruit, and add sufficient soda water to enliven and blend to taste (about 1 pint bottle). Put a lump of ice into the jug, and serve at once.

Learn to Swim Well

No. 4.—The BREAST-CRAWL

If you are in a bath or narrow pool as the full name should be. Already there is a good game you can play with some friends, called "Mind the Shark." It is equally good fun in deep or shallow water.

One player sits in the middle—he is the shark. All the others dash across from one side of the pool to the other, trying to escape the shark. They can wade, swim, plunge, or go how they like. All those touched by the shark either drop out of the game or stay in and become sharksface downwards along the surface, thrash the legs up and down, not too fast. Each foot should go down about 12 inches, one rising while the other falls. Only the heels should show at the surface. Keep the knees still and point the feet. Turn the toes in.

ARM PRACTICE

For the arm practice, stand breast-deep and lean forward. One arm drives back through the water, while the other recovers forward through the air. For the drive, dip the flat hand right in front of the head and send it down under the body straight and hard. Lift it from the water by the side. Turn the palm downward; swing the forearm round till it points to the front; push the arm forward to full stretch. All that recovery movement must be smooth and fairly quick.

Keep on with your plunge practice, trying to glide a fair way before you lift your head. Keep the head down between the arms as you glide and press the elbows in against the ears. You can start the crawl leg-thrash as you glide from your plunge. If done properly, it will make you travel farther.

Wisdom Of Establishing Permanent Stations In The Pacific

Eat, Drink, Play This Way—

If You Want To Live To Be 100—Or
To Be Young At 80

DO you want to live to be 100? Do you want to be a spruce, powerful young man or woman at 80, able to indulge in sport and never know a day's illness?

Then listen to Sir William Arbuthnot Lane, who has just celebrated his 80th birthday, and who hopes to reach his century and still be as fit as a fiddle.

"The whole secret of being healthy is the simplest thing in the world," he said.

"The secret is—cleanliness. Keep yourself clean both inside and outside and you will never have cause to fear an old age of lingering illness."

Sir William was asked about his plan to celebrate his hundredth birthday in 1966.

"Believe me, I have no intention of altering my ways of living," he said. "I hope to continue having a bit of salmon fishing, enjoying my walks in the country, having a drink when I feel like one and eating sensibly."

"I am not a crank who says that you mustn't smoke and mustn't drink. Alcohol is a food and, taken properly, is a very pleasant food."

SMOKING AND EATING

"And there is just one more point of advice. Everyone should eat lots of green vegetables and salads."

"Further, don't eat so heartily that you become fat and flabby."

LAWRENCE OF ARABIA: VANDALS AT GRAVE

HIDDEN away in the quiet wilderness of Morston Heath, Dorset, in a piece of recently consecrated ground is the grave of Lawrence of Arabia.

But not too secret or sacred for souvenir hunters is the last resting place of that elusive and romantic figure.

Hundreds of visitors arrive every week to view the grave. Few leave without taking some memento of their visit.

Others have even walked over the grave, until the grass on the top of this simple mound has worn thin.

A small shrub which grows at the head of the grave has been stripped and cut until only a bare stump remains.

When I visited the grave (twice a London reporter), there were just a few flowers. "And they won't be there long," my guide told me.

GARBO'S NEW CAR

She Had Last
One Ten Years

FOR ten years the Hollywood studio gatemans have known a battered, black, faded saloon car.

They have always passed it through the gate with a nod to the chauffeur.

It was the only car Greta Garbo had had since she became a film star.

A shiny, black seven-passenger new limousine with a sleek and sporty chauffeur whizzed into the studio gate last week. Officers jumped to the running-board to stop the strange car.

The chauffeur nodded toward the rear.

It was Garbo paying her first visit to the studios since her return to Hollywood after a long holiday in Sweden.

Garbo is reported to have become less solitary and secretive while on holiday. Her smart new car is Hollywood's first evidence of a change.

Film Star Leaves £300,000

THOMAS MEIGHAN, famous film star of the silent screen, who died a fortnight ago, left between £300,000 and £400,000.

This is revealed by his will filed at Mineola, Long Island.

Meighan was fifty-eight.

POSITION CHANGED BY INDEPENDENCE OF PHILIPPINES

Strategic Possibilities Of Anglo-American Front
MANILA NEAR TO SINGAPORE

Washington, July 28.

THE advisability of maintaining permanent United States naval bases in the Philippine Islands has already been given careful attention by the Navy Department, despite the fact that a final decision in the matter is not required before the effective date of Philippine Independence ten years hence, it is learned here.

Continued political attention to the Far East, coupled with the development of a Philippine military establishment in the newborn Commonwealth has caused high naval officers individually to weigh the arguments for and against United States naval defence of future independent Philippines.

DIFFICULTY OF LONG LINES OF COMMUNICATION

A SHARP division of opinion has already developed between schools of different strategic thought as to the wisdom of establishing permanent bases in the islands.

Under the Tydings-McDuffie Independence Act, the question of naval bases was not decided upon but reserved for negotiation after independence is in effect. This fact has invited continued speculation on American naval policy.

One group of high naval authorities feels that the arguments against permanent bases in the Philippines, in the light of the present situation, outweigh the reasons advanced in favour of such bases. Such opinion is obviously merely preliminary, in view of unstable factors in Far Eastern politics and commerce, and the fact that air warfare is still in its infancy.

These officers are of the opinion that the present volume of United States trade in the Far East is not sufficient to warrant the strategic risks involved in permanent naval fortification of the Philippines, and that naval bases in the Far East would contradict a defence system based on the Hawaiian Islands as the main defensive outpost in the Pacific.

THE ARGUMENTS

The arguments for and against bases in the Philippines, an unofficially commented upon among naval experts at the present time run along the following lines:—

Favourable to permanent bases:—Diplomatic policies, particularly the principle of the "open door" in China trade, require well-organized defence facilities in Far Eastern waters.

American trans-Pacific marine and air routes and around-the-world lines logically require a trans-Pacific base to support the necessary naval protection.

An American base in the Philippines, fairly close to the British base at Singapore, would offer strategic possibility of an Anglo-American naval "front" in the event of an emergency affecting both the United States and the British Dominions.

A powerful naval base in the southern Philippines, adequate to support a considerable number of warships, might theoretically enable strategic control of the immensely important Netherlands-Indian petroleum, tin, fibres, vegetable oils and other indispensable war materials; and Permanently would guarantee the American political status in the Philippines if people of the islands should later decide that their own best interests would lie under some form of American protectorate, rather than complete separation.

CONTRARY VIEWS

The arguments unfavourable to fortification, as advanced in high circles are:—

Establishment of naval bases in the Philippines would compel the United States to maintain a strategic plan featured by extremely long lines of communication and great difficulties of maintenance in event of a war; many high officers believe it would be virtually impossible to hold such bases in event of a major conflict.

The Philippines lack industrial facilities to support fleets stationed in the islands if the long lines of communication to the United States were intercepted by an enemy.

Establishment of a base in the islands would logically require the United States to have sub-bases in Guam or other intermediate islands which would bring the naval establishment permanently face to face with the Japanese navy, without any intermediate "no man's land" sustained by diplomacy or mutual agreement.

The Naval bases could not decisively injure an enemy's commerce even if powerful battlefleets were stationed here, because most strategic materials have alternative routes to any possibly powerful enemy in Asia; and

Maintenance of a base and fleet in the Philippines would be extremely costly and the huge appropriations involved, some experts here believe, might better be spent in less distant fortifications.

FALSE COLDS

Kansas City, Mo., July 21.

Sufferers from sinusitis, the so-called "false" colds, are the human carriers of real colds, Dr. Edward C. Sewall of San Francisco declares.

Dr. Sewall addressed the section on diseases of the nose and throat at the recent convention of the American Medical Association.

"Cold weather influences adversely persons with chronic sinusitis," Dr. Sewall said, "and causes them to become active carriers of colds."

Dr. Marvin M. Cullom of Nashville, Tenn., blamed sinusitis for 85 per cent of infections of the middle ear and mastoid. "Such infections are a menace to life, health and hearing," he said.—United Press.

BOY KING OF SIAM

Singapore, July 29.

The boy King of Siam, Ananda Mahidol I, will visit Bangkok next November during the cool season.

This will be his first visit to his country since his accession last year on the abdication of ex-King Prajadhipok who is now living in exile in England.

The boy King, who is 11, is at school in Switzerland with his mother. During his visit to Bangkok he will be "presented to the people" but the coronation ceremony will not take place until he becomes of age.—United Press.

ANOTHER SOLAR ECLIPSE

VISIBLE IN H.K.

Nanking, Aug. 1.

"The valuable experience gathered by the Chinese solar eclipse expedition to Hokkaido, Japan, on last June 19 will be useful to China for observing the next similar heavenly phenomenon which will be seen along the Yangtze Valley at noon on Sept. 21, 1941."

Thus remarked Dr. Yu Ching-sung, director of the Nanking Purple Mountain Observatory, and head of the said expedition, in a recent radio broadcast.

Distinguishing itself as the first astronomical expedition ever dispatched by China, the group, composed of six noted Chinese astronomers, garnered notable results in their observations.

In addition to taking three excellent photographs of the corona which will serve as a valuable aid in the study of its light intensity, the expedition also took moving pictures of the solar phenomenon.

FOR 3,368 YEARS

Turning to statistical records of the solar phenomenon, Dr. Yu said that during the past 3,368 years, there have been a total of 8,000 solar eclipses or 237 times in every 100 years. Of this number, however, only in 66 times did the moon completely obstruct the light of the sun.

The chances of observing the total eclipse of the sun from China, which occupies approximately two per cent of the earth's surface, are much fewer, there being about once in every 100 years. A perusal of Chinese annals shows that within a period of 400 years, from 1,542 till the present, there have been 50 total solar eclipses seen in China of which only four were seen at noon.

In the next 100 years, Dr. Yu predicted, there will be 10 total eclipses to be seen in China, of which only one will take place at noon.

LAST IN 1542 A.D.

The chances of the total eclipse of the sun happening at noon and seen in densely-populated regions along the Yangtze and the Huangho valleys are scarce if not rare. Within a long period of 500 years, only two occurred. One on Aug. 11, 1542, in the Ming dynasty and was seen along the Yellow River valley. The other will take place on Sept. 21, 1941, Dr. Yu stated.

A humorous touch was injected into his speech when he said that as the sky darkened, flocks of crows were seen flying back to their nests and within 20 minutes after the eclipse, he heard some crows crow. "They must have mistaken the heavenly phenomenon for dawn."

Dr. Yu concluded by paying a warm tribute to the host of foreign scientists who went to Khabarovsk and Hokkaido from great distances and at immense expenses just to observe the momentary solar phenomenon against extreme uncertainty.

Under the able administration of Dr. Yu, the Purple Mountain Observatory, built at a cost of $300,000 and claimed to be the largest of its kind in China, has achieved notable results in solar research—the study of variable stars and spectro-photometry, and the determination of time. It has, furthermore, established close connections with all leading observatories in the world.—Central News.

key on a foul and won the heavy-weight championship, the big Boston sailor cried like a child. It is not so much a sign of weakness, this giving way in an emotional climax, but rather of a particular quality of concentration and, for the spectator, of sympathy. There is no reason to scoff, then, because Franklin Borfeldt wept when, with victory in grasp, he dropped the baton in the Olympic relay final and lost the event for Germany. In such a case supporters might escape ridicule if they wept, too.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET IRREGULAR YESTERDAY

New York, Aug. 10. Swam, Culbertson & Fritz, Dow Jones summary of yesterday's markets. The market to-day was irregular. At the opening, trading was active and the volume was higher, but slackened later on realising. This was apparently a technical reaction since business news has continued good. Steel and railroad stocks were strong, until profit-taking developed. Utility securities were mixed. The bonds market was irregularly lower. Stocks on the Curb Exchange, on the whole, were irregular. Industrial issues, however, were firm.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal morning comment: "Some traders are of the opinion that American Curb issues are in an over-sold condition. The rising export price for copper may stimulate an early increase in domestic prices."

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks. The market to-day was irregular as traders became cautious. Shipments of United States steel during July totalled 950,851 finished tons against 547,794 tons in July last year. The Phillips Petroleum Company earned $1.01 for the quarter ended June 30 as against 84 cents in the second quarter of last year. This company proposes to offer additional common share of one for fourteen at $30. The Times Business Index for the past week is given as 102.8 as compared with 101.4 the previous week and 85.8 during the corresponding week of last year.

Cotton: There was some heavy liquidation on a bearish interpretation of the Government Bureau report. There was a good trade demand on the scale-down. The "spot" markets are inactive. The talk of poor export prospects and the fear of increased hedging combined to check speculative demand.

Wheat: The easiness of the Winnipeg market is disappointing. The cash position is now easier. The visible supply of all wheat shows an increase of 5,351,000 bushels. The Government Bureau estimates the spring wheat crop at 1,130,000,000 bushels and the winter crop at 519,000,000 bushels.

Corn: The market was subjected to selling pressure early in the day on reports of rain. The popular Cole Porter songs are kept intact; to them are added a group of parodies on the theme of "You're the Top." Around Crosby are grouped, in addition to the two players mentioned, Charlie Ruggles and Grace Bradley, Arthur Treacher and Herbert McWade. The tiddy action transpires on an ocean liner where Crosby, while in search of romance, is mistaken for a public enemy.

CINEMA NOTES

What chance has a poor murderer when, both super-sleuth William Powell, assisted by Jean Arthur, and Inspector James Gleason level on him? Because the crimes in the film, "The Ex-Mr. Bradford," (now at the Queen's Theatre) were most baffling and diabolically conceived, RKKO Radio decided to set all these astute criminologists on the trail of the perpetrator. Powell portrays the wealthy sportsman type, whose hobby it is to unravel crimes of labyrinthine perplexity, while Gleason is the rough and ready professional "gumshoe" type, who appeared last in "Murder on a Bridge Path." Aiding and abetting these cryptic criminologists is Jean Arthur, who has two previous Powell detective pictures to her credit. They are supported by an excellent cast including Eric Blore, Robert Armstrong, Ralph Morgan, Lila Lee, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Grant Mitchell, Frank M. Thomas and Frankie Darro. The original story was written by James Edward Grant, adapted by Anthony Veller and directed by Stephen Roberts. "Trouble for Two"

Based on "The Suicide Club" by Robert Louis Stevenson, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Trouble for Two" is now at the King's Theatre co-starring Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell. The picture has been so cleverly produced from the Stevenson narrative that it distinctly thrilled an audience which was liberally composed of Stevenson's admirers. Montgomery, in the role of the remembered gay young prince required by royal command to marry a princess for whom he had no love, is everything that Stevenson pictured in his immortal writings. Miss Russell, as the unwanted lady, demonstrates that original story charm by winning his affection. The supporting cast is excellent, including Frank Morgan, who recently distinguished himself in M-G-M's "The Great Ziegfeld," Reginald Owen, Louis Hayward, David Holt, Virginia Taylor, Bill E. Cline, Walter Kingsford, Ivan Simpson and others. "Trouble for Two" was produced by Louis D. Lighton and was directed by J. Walter Ruben, who directed "Public Hero," "Riff-raff" and other M-G-M successes.

In "Anything Goes," the new Bing Crosby musical, Paramount offers a fashion parade de luxe. Between Ethel Merman in an array of gowns by Travis Banton, and Ida Lupino in still another collection of this famous designer's conceptions of the current mode, it looks as though feminine fans must plan to see this picture in order to make adequate notes of what the well-dressed blonde and brunette are wearing this year. "Anything Goes," now playing at the Star Theatre as the feature attraction, is based on the Broadway hit. The popular Cole Porter songs are kept intact; to them are added a group of parodies on the theme of "You're the Top." Around Crosby are grouped, in addition to the two players mentioned, Charlie Ruggles and Grace Bradley, Arthur Treacher and Herbert McWade. The tiddy action transpires on an ocean liner where Crosby, while in search of romance, is mistaken for a public enemy.

New Features

AVAILABLE in all Studebakers for 1936 is the new automatic hill holder. This marvellous development in safety and comfort prevents the car from rolling back after you have come to a stop on any upgrade, steep or slight. Even the most expert driver often has difficulty in handling the clutch, brakes, gear change lever and accelerator at such times, and this simple, dependable Studebaker innovation solves that problem. Moreover, clutch wear will be greatly reduced since the clutch cannot be used as a brake to hold the car on the upgrade.

FUTURE OF COLONIES

Despite frequent statements that Britain is not disposed to surrender any of her Colonies or mandated territories, in return for Germany's re-entry into the League of Nations, a fear still persists in certain parliamentary circles that she may, under pressure, accede to some such demand. Accordingly, a group of leading M.P.s has issued a manifesto expressing the view that such a course would be morally unjustifiable, and politically dangerous. It is pointed out that under Article 119 of the Treaty of Versailles, Germany "renounced in favour of the principal Allied and associated Powers" (not the League of Nations) "all her rights and titles over her overseas possessions" and it is suggested that Britain has no right to barter away as a mere counter in the European game vast native populations, as well as many British settlers, who have been given clear pledges by successive British Governments that the protection of British rule would never be withdrawn. Germany's demand for colonies is usually based on the need of access to raw materials, and of an outlet for her surplus population. But facts show conclusively, in the view of the authors of the manifesto referred to, that the return of her former colonies would make no appreciable difference to Germany's economic position. There is to-day no discrimination in regard to the export of raw materials from any of these territories. Moreover, between 1904 and 1913 on an average only 33 persons emigrated annually from Germany to her colonies, and in 1913, her colonies supplied only one half per cent. of her total imports. On the other hand, the cession of the mandated territories to Germany would seriously weaken the strategic unity of the British Empire. Tanganyika, for example, in the hands of a foreign Power, apart from interrupting the continuity of British territory from Egypt to the Cape, would endanger the lines of communication with India, Australia, and the East. The entry of Germany into Africa would thus necessitate a further vast extension of Britain's defence programme and its already crushing burden. A further point made is that the Governments of most of the other mandatory Powers, including the British Dominions, have declared their unwillingness to consider any such cession, and it is thus urged that the British Government should, once and for all, indicate its definite adherence to a like line of policy. This issue, it will be recalled, was mentioned in the questionnaire sent some months ago to the German Government, in an effort to secure elucidation of Herr Hitler's ideas, but up to the present no reply has been vouchsafed to this document.

ASK your child these
Twenty questions (designed primarily for children from eight to fifteen).

The answers will provide valuable clues to his character, his real happiness, and the career that is likely to suit him.

Point out to him that it is not a test but just a way of finding out what children really think about, and what they really wish for. There are no right answers and no wrong answers, and each child will answer differently.

This questionnaire, based on the findings of psychological analysis, has been set by a practising psychiatrist, who has also prepared a key to the answers.

The key to the clues provided by the answers will be published on Wednesday (You might cut this page out and make a note of the answers for comparison.)

2. Suppose you were going to live on a desert island and could take only three people with you. Whom would you take with you?

3. Suppose you could have three of the wishes below, which would you want to come true? First, second, and third choice:

NOTES OF THE DAY

We have perhaps been lacking in sympathy when we grinned at the man who surreptitiously wiped his eyes at some heart-rending crisis in a cinema, and we have possibly been among those who shouted angrily when some player on a football field lost his temper and lashed out at an opponent. No, there is probably no relationship between the reaction. But the point is that sport, like fiction, can move the strongest to tears and angry violence. We admit that the spectacle of a weeping supporter of a football team is a rarity, but we have known athletes, men and women, to cry both in victory and defeat. When little Joliat scored the goal which won the Flying Frenchmen of Montreal the world's ice hockey championship against Victoria some years ago, he sobbed into his padded gloves. When Schmeling beat Jack Shar- (Continued on Page 4.)

None the less, it may again come into the limelight in the near future, for which reason it is to be hoped that there will be no dubiety about Britain's policy.

CHIANG BUILDING HUGE DEFENCE WORKS

To Keep Japanese In North China

FORTRESSES, BIG GUNS, RAILWAYS, AERODROMES, ROADS & NAVAL BASE Spending Millions Of Dollars Monthly

SHANGHAI, JULY 30. DETAILS OF ELABORATE DEFENCE MEASURES WHICH ARE BEING SECRETLY CARRIED ON IN DIFFERENT PARTS OF CHINA WERE PUBLISHED IN THE CHUNG KUNG PAO ON TUESDAY.

Marshal Chiang Kai-shek is reported to be spending several million dollars monthly, building fortresses, constructing a network of motor roads and railways and constructing aerodromes in the regions on the south bank of the Yellow River.

The defence lines built there are exactly the same as those built by the Soviet along the Siberia-Manchukuo borders.

NEW NAVAL BASE

The heavy guns on the Lion Hill Fortresses and those on the Ching-shan Hill have all been replaced by modern long-range guns. Tourists are prohibited from entering the Kiangsu area. Another line of defence will be built at right angles to the second line, extending from Hsichow southwards, covering the centres along the coast of Chekiang and Fukien. A naval base is being constructed near the Chien-tan River.

The above measures are intended to keep the Japanese from advancing southward from Tientsin and Peiping.

Flappers Treasured His Picture: He Died In River—Unknown

New York, Aug. 1.

A SUCCESS story that rivals fiction ended this week in the muddy waters of New York's North River.

Eight years ago James Murray, who had been a salesman, bill collector, electrician's mate in turn, was doorman at the Capitol Theatre in New York.

Every one told him he was so good-looking he ought to go into the movies. So one day he left his theatre job, hitch-hiked his way to Hollywood.

30 Billion Cycles Per Second

ATTAINED BY CHINESE RADIO ENGINEER

Pasadena, Calif., July 21. The world's tiniest radio valve, smaller than a housefly, has been demonstrated at the California Institute of Technology.

It broadcasts on the world's shortest man-made wave-length of one-third inch and highest of all frequencies, 30 billion cycles per second.

The shortest waves that amateur wireless operators use are 300 times as long as those of the tiny tube. House current has the frequency of 60 cycles compared to its 30,000,000,000 cycles.

THREE YEARS' WORK. A slight young Chinese research student, Dr. C. Y. Meng, took three years of meticulous and patient work to develop the tube for use in investigating the fundamental construction of matter. He operated almost entirely with the use of a high powered microscope and much of the time with his materials in a vacuum.

The tube looks about the right size for a doll house radio, a good-sized heavily held in front of the bit of wire and glass hides the workings. Dr. Meng's secret is his construction of the almost invisibly small grid which has been the obstacle to other efforts to reduce the size of vacuum tubes.

He drew the brittle tungsten wire finer than the smallest hair and coiled it into a tiny spring of 13 coils only eight-thousandths of an inch in diameter and two-hundredths of an inch long—smaller than a section of fine sewing needle.

To accomplish this, Dr. Meng tempered the tungsten with heat inside a high vacuum chamber to prevent it from breaking. No coil this small has ever been obtained before by other processes.

So close are the filament and plate of the tube, with only the diminutive grid separating them, that electrons hustle from one to the other at astoundingly high frequency. The buzzing electrons generate exceedingly fine waves—so dainty fog or rain absorbs them. The use of the tubes is not for radio work, however, but in attacking the fundamental problem of structure of matter. United Press.

PERU WITHDRAWS FROM OLYMPIC GAMES

QUIST'S HISTORIC DAVIS CUP MATCH WITH VON CRAMM

VIVID DESCRIPTION OF ENCOUNTER PLAYERS AT THEIR BEST IN A ROARING WIND

We shall always remember Saturday's wind-swept struggle between A. K. Quist and G. Von Cramm in the Inter-zone Final as one of the greatest matches ever played for the Davis Cup. Thirteen times in a match that lasted for nearly three hours one or the other—von Cramm 10 times—had been within a stroke of victory; each man wrought miracles when defeat was at hand; but it could not go on for ever, and after many a roar from the crowded stands of No. 1 Court von Cramm won in the twentieth game of the fifth set by 4-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 11-9—a truly remarkable score for a match that no one will forget. Before that J. H. Crawford in a pitiless half-hour against H. Henkel, of Germany, had won the first two sets by 6-2, 6-2 when Henkel, not fully recovered from a recent chill, retired.

When all has been written (and everything cannot be attempted here) about vivid movement, the swift-changing cries, and all the gallant defiance of the match between von Cramm and Quist, the lasting wonder will be that from a time being winning they could not win, naturally a little diffidently at first, while von Cramm raced into a lead of five games to one. Even then Quist gave us a taste of the brave fight he was to make to the end by saving four set points (as von Cramm had done in the first set) and winning three games—enough to make von Cramm think his lucky stars to get out of the set alive.

VON CRAMM'S ANXIETY

Events crowded so thickly in the end that little else could be said about those first four sets, full of sixes and fours, which found the players dead level in games when the fifth was entered upon. On the day both in strokes and methods one thinks of Quist as the better player. There was a deep and unobtrusive drive to the corners that von Cramm never had; his service, especially from the forehand court, could either beat von Cramm altogether or force him so wide out that an answering backhand volley into space won many an anxious point; his forehand was firm and full of spin, and no short lob could live with the power of Quist's smash. Which is not to suggest that von Cramm could not make many of the wide, flashing drives that have brought him victories over all the world's great players. Sometimes he was beaten by backhand volleys that sped low and fast across his path, and Quist soon learned that it was of little use merely to block his volleys back against a man so fast. But von Cramm for a long time was unquestionably in trouble. The wind—often made a mockery of the lines; and his service, frequently prone to the shock of the foot-fault, did not come to its strength until it was a matter of life or death. That was the reason for Quist's ability to win each of his two sets by taking von Cramm's service.

Quist came back from the brief interval with his ankle strapped and a lead of two sets to one. For a time it was touch and go in the fourth set with Quist led by three games to two, but von Cramm maintained a calm serenity which was to bring him through in the end. Excitement grew tense as the fifth set, in which Quist, as in all the others, served first, were on. The wind blustered and brought up swirling clouds of dust, and it was hardly surprising that Quist, who had been in physical discomfort,

BETTING SHOPS OR BOOKMAKERS?

Problem For New Zealand Authorities

Sydney, July 16. In New Zealand there appears to be considerable doubt as to what steps the party at present in power will take in respect of licensing betting shops or course bookmakers, says the Sydney Referee.

The belief is general that some move will be made, and the opinion is rather general that, for the good of the sport, course bookmakers should be given preference to betting shops.

The latter would not benefit racing, while course bookmakers would be unlikely to do it any harm, even if they were the boon many New Zealanders anticipate.

A New Zealand writer, "Carbine," says that Australian bookmakers have been making inquiries as to whether bookmakers are likely to be licensed. This with the idea of trying their luck in the Dominion.

Bookmaking is not profitable business it once was in Australia, but it is doubtful whether anyone with an average connection on Australian race-courses would be a gambler by transferring to New Zealand if opportunity should offer.

HAS ITS ATTRACTIVE

The revenue the South Australian Government derives from betting shops is said to appeal to some members of the present N.Z. Ministry, and they, of course, may be strong enough to sway other Ministers in favour of that method.

It is to be hoped not, as while New Zealand owners of racehorses have had adverse conditions to contend against for a long time, their position would probably be worse in the near future, if betting shops were added to their troubles. Even if the State temporarily gained by the legislation of betting shops, racing and the public would not.

"Carbine" in further comment in the N.Z. Referee, says:— "It would pay the Government to (Continued on Page 9.)"

DOUBLES MATCH AN ANTI-CLIMAX

AUSTRALIANS WIN COMFORTABLY

London, July 21.

Australia gained their expected doubles victory over Germany in the Inter-Zone final of the Davis Cup competition at the All-England Club yesterday, and they will come to the last two singles matches to-day with a lead of two victories to one. It should be sufficient to make them the challengers against Great Britain at the end of the week.

But somehow under grey clouds on No. 1 Court yesterday the spirit of the fight seemed to have flagged. A. K. Quist, who put up such a brave challenge for Australia on Saturday, could not play because the ankle that gave way then nerved him, and his place as partner to J. H. Crawford was taken by V. D. McGrath. Quist, indeed, was on crutches, and it is extremely improbable that he will be able to play the opening singles match to-day against H. Henkel himself a sick man, who, where could, of a few days ago, was a powerful player. McGrath, who until recently always played the singles matches with Crawford, but Quist, after all, is the Australian champion and if his country win through on Saturday's Challenge Round, as they still should, one can only hope that his injury will have mended them. There never has been much in a year for distressing accidents.

AN UNEVENTFUL MATCH

Crawford and McGrath beat G. von Cramm and Henkel by three sets to one (6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4). This score of 6-4 is becoming an insistent theme running through the contest; out of 11 sets so far played eight have ended with the same figures. It was by no means a flimsy match, or even a very good one, but rather full of honestly sound play accomplished with a preoccupied air by all save the bland McGrath, who in the end was the best player of the four. The score gives a false suggestion of a particularly level struggle, since a 6-4 set is supposed to be anybody's set. Yet only one, the second which Germany won, was level at four games all; in each of the other three sets Australia had won the important service games of their adversaries sufficiently early to be ahead by five games to three.

That is not to say that Germany were a beaten side all through, even if one felt that Crawford and McGrath always had something in reserve that would be too good. Crawford's service for example was a match winner both in power and the openings is made for McGrath's volleys. Crawford never lost his service; only once, at 15-40 in the fourth game of the fourth set, did he look like doing so. Perhaps the severest blow to Germany's hopes of a match was the inconsistent play of von Cramm. Usually in a doubles he is the keen, incisive first-string, making the chalk fly with his service and leaping into untouchable volleys. There were, of course, some strokes of the von Cramm brand; but apart from a few, his service and inspiration and service power there were times when his low volleys, especially on the backhand, were positively bad.

HENKEL'S RESPONSIBILITY

END PROGRAMME NEXT WEEK

K.C.C. "B" DIV. TENNIS TEAM

Kowloon Cricket Club "B" Division tennis league team will bring their season's programme to a finish with two matches next week.

On Wednesday August 19, they play Indian Recreation Club at Soekunpo, and on Friday are at home to Craigengower.

This amounts to tomorrow's programme, the Indian Recreation Club meeting Recreio, divisional runners-up. The match is being played at Soekunpo.

LAWN BOWLS

SEMI-FINAL TO-DAY

IN RINKS CHAMPIONSHIP

To-day's lawn bowls match between J. H. Henson and S. A. Bright and J. E. Noronha and P. X. M. da Silva will decide who shall be the opponents of S. Randle and R. Duncan in the final of the Colony pairs championship.

This match is being played at 5 o'clock to-day on the K.C.C. green, and the Portuguese couple are slight favourites.

Chinese Recreation Club went a step nearer to winning the mixed doubles tennis league yesterday when they defeated Club de Recreio in the return match by eight sets to one.

In another match K.C.C. (2) completed their programme, losing to the K. C. C. first string by seven sets to two.

Mrs. McCaw again figured prominently for the losers and helped to bring about their two successes. Mr. E. A. Abraham, vice-President of the club, who years ago played in the senior men's team, made a welcome return to league tennis and with Mrs. Blanford put up an exceedingly useful display, returning practically everything within reach.

K.C.C. (1) were without Miss Olive Dalziel, who was indisposed, Mrs. Frank Goodwin deputising and teaming up with Teddy Fincher to assist in winning a couple of sets. Recreio, minus the services of A. V. Gossano, were no match for Chinese Recreation Club and could only secure a couple of draws with Tsui Yun-pui and Miss MacKenzie. Once again the powerful Tsui Yun-pui-Miss Perry combination won all three sets, and they head the list of leading individual performances.

K.C.C. (2) v. K.C.C. (1)

Playing on their ground at King's Park yesterday, the Kowloon Cricket Club's Mixed Doubles "A" Team, beat their comrades of the "B" division by seven to two sets.

The results: S. A. Gray and Mrs. MacLean (K.C.C. "B") beat E. C. Finch and Mrs. Goodwin 6-4; lost to E. F. Finch and Mrs. Griffiths 6-2; lost to G. Bodiker and Miss MacKenzie 6-2.

G. C. Burnett and Mrs. Stokes (K.C.C. "B") lost to E. C. Finch and Mrs. Goodwin 1-6; lost to E. F. Finch and Mrs. Griffiths 1-6; lost to G. Bodiker and Miss MacKenzie 3-6.

The unbeaten Chinese Recreation Club team had an easy passage over their guests, the Club de Recreio, winning by eight points to one. The Portuguese failed to win a single set, gaining their solitary point by two draws. Tsui Yun-pui and Miss R. Perry were the best of the Chinese, winning all their sets with ease.

The results were as follows: W. C. Hung and Mrs. Chiu beat J. Consalves and Miss O. Ribeiro 6-1; drew with C. A. Barrett and Miss C. Botelho 6-6; beat A. V. Remondino and Miss A. Roza 6-2. Tsui Yun-pui and Miss Perry beat Consalves and Miss Ribeiro 6-3; beat Barrett and Miss Botelho 6-1; beat Remondino and Miss Roza 6-1.

Tsui Yun-pui and Mrs. Chan drew with Consalves and Miss Ribeiro 6-6; beat Barrett and Miss Botelho 6-0; beat Remondino and Miss Roza 6-0.

Dispute Over Football Match GAME ANNULLED Sequel To Victory Over Austria

Lima, August 10.

The President of the Peruvian Republic has ordered the withdrawal of Peru from the Olympic Games as a protest against the action of the International Football Federation in annulling Peru's 4 to 2 victory in the football match against Austria.

The match was ordered to be replayed because during the game a section of the Peruvian supporters invaded the field and attacked some of the Austrian players.

The people of Lima are incensed over the decision, and are holding street meetings, while the newspapers are issuing special editions declaring that all the South American delegations should withdraw from the Games as a demonstration of solidarity with Peru.—Reuter.

CHINESE BOXER DEFEATED

Takes Lot Of Punishment

Berlin, Aug. 10.

China to-day lost her representative in the Olympic heavy-weight boxing competition, Yun Lan-wang being out-pointed by Fock of Holland.

The Hollander was the more experienced fighter and his effective hard left jab and right hooks gashed Yun's upper lip.

The Chinese was groggy in the third round from a heavy punishment to the head, but he stood up gamely to the finish.

BASKETBALL

Brazil beat China in the basketball consolation event by 42 goals to 14, after leading 10-5 at half time. Brazil were very much faster and more accurate, but China improved in the second half, changing their tactics and speeding up their game, but to no avail.

Chan Chan-hing, one of China's crack swimmers, failed to start in the 400 metres free style.—Reuter.

ECHO OF 1932 OLYMPICS

A faint echo of the unfortunate misunderstandings which marred the 1932 World Olympics at Los Angeles was heard to-day, says a United Press despatch from Berlin, when

COTTON'S ASSISTANT FINISHES THIRD

In The Belgian Golf Championship

Spa, Aug. 10.

Although Henry Cotton failed by one stroke to stop Beyer from winning the Belgian golf championship to-day, he had the pleasure of seeing his assistant, Fred Robertson finish equal third.

Robertson aggregated 280, made up by rounds of 73-72-72-73.

Beyer won the title with a score of 285, his rounds being 70-72-75-68, while Cotton was second with scores of 68-71-71-76, equals 280. Cotton was seven strokes ahead of Beyer at the end of 54 holes, but he went to pieces on the last 18, returning a card of 78.—Reuter.

Peru refused to obey an order to replay their football match with Austria.

On Saturday Peru beat Austria by four goals to two, but a replay was ordered as a result of Austrian charges of foul play.

The latest news of the contretemps is that Peru plans to withdraw her entire Olympic delegation.

WOMAN SETS RECORDS

Winning the final of the women's 100 metres free style, Wilhelmina Mastenbroek of Holland to-day beat her own record swim in the heats when she clocked 1 minute 5.0 seconds, and thus established a new Olympic record.

Jeannette Campbell of Canada finished second and Gisela Arndt of Germany was third.—United Press.

Australia's Tour In England

The tour of England which the Australian Women's Cricket Team will make in 1937, is now all planned, except for the one match against a Midland County. This was to have been played in Nottingham, but there is quite a likelihood that it will now be in Leicester. The tour will see some of the famous, and most beautiful, grounds we have, as they are playing at The Oval, Old Trafford, the Bat and Ball, Gravesend, Winchester, and Maidstone.

Three Test matches, of three days duration, will be played, and this will be the first time that women have played for three days in England. The last match of the tour will be against the English Women's Team which toured in Australia in 1934, a happy wind-up to what we hope will be a most interesting series.

One of the social events is to be arranged by the White Heather Cricket Club. This is the oldest in existence and was formed in 1888. In 1937 the club will be celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, and a dinner will be arranged for the White Heather Club, who were an original member of the White Heather Club, will be present.

BETTING SHOPS OR BOOKMAKERS?

be long-headed in this matter. Anything which injures racing will damage a source of State revenue eventually. The increased income to the State will be merely temporary; the ultimate result will be the death of the game, that for so long has provided golden eggs for unfair and ungrateful administration.

Bookmakers who have been doing a big illegal business do not favour course bookmaking or shops. That is only natural, as either would weaken their financial position.

"But," says the writer I have quoted: "there is little doubt that there are others who would like to be licensed—others who fear and dislike the risk of fine and imprisonment and who would welcome an opportunity to compete on equal terms with the men who have cornered a big proportion of the business done to-day."

It is certain that those who control racing in New Zealand will oppose any proposal favouring course bookmaking or shop betting, but if the Government wants either, or both, that is all there is to it.

In my opinion shop betting would be as injurious to racing in New Zealand as, in the long-run, it may be to South Australia.

DOUBLES WAS ANTI-CLIMAX

than his share of the burden; some of his softly deft angles of drive and volley were the more surprising for the frequency with which he mis-hit the easy ball. Crawford saw to it that Henkel was given plenty to do overhead, and it was not long before his high volleys were falling him. More serious was the fact that though Henkel could serve his need with his first ball, his second was so weak that it could be murdered, particularly by McGrath with his double-fisted backhand.

Only one brief interlude of rain when von Cramm had lost his service in the first game of the third set held up the match. He had lost it with a double-fault in the first set to give the Australians all they wanted, even though he saved three set points when next he served. All through play was too loosely knit on both sides to reach the heights. On the whole Crawford and McGrath had the advantage both in service and in return of service to give them the all-important volleying command, and what with McGrath increasing in strength of drive, and volley all the time and serving an ace for the last point, a rather formal affair was soon over.

Filipinos Win By Knock-Outs CALIFORNIAN FIGHTS

Stockton, Aug. 4.

Two Filipino fighters scored knockouts in bouts here to-night.

Tommy Ganson, 114, of Manila, disposed of Bobby Gray, 129, of San Jose, California, in the second of a scheduled six round bout.

Mauricio Seria, 116, also of Manila, flashed over a haymaker in the sixth round of his go with Frank Mirabel, 121, of Los Angeles.

The two Filipino boxers recently arrived in the States from Manila with their manager, Jesus Santos Tomas Corles. In their first appearance on July 21 Tommy Ganson knocked out Benny Garcia of Visalia in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout while Mauricio Seria who was a special event just before he departed for the Pacific coast, knocked out Joey Dodge of Sacramento.

Quist's Historic Match

should appear to tie first. In a game full of weak strokes—or strong ones by von Cramm—he lost his service and von Cramm, serving splendidly in the next game, was ahead by five games to three. The interest then lay in whether the score could be made to look nicely uniform by another 4-6 set, but things began to happen.

THIRTEEN MATCH-POINTS

Quist survived two match-points in the ninth game, one with the job that von Cramm returned with a stroke that would have won any match but this. Then von Cramm served; three more match-points could not be won. Quist was level.

Quist's happy fighter was ahead, and he continued to lead by the odd game with von Cramm resolutely serving himself level until the fateful sixteenth game, when three chances came and went. In this game von Cramm served; the score was 6-4 and only the wind saved. Flashed a drive of von Cramm's hit the tape and dropped dead. So by a thread's breadth can matches be won and lost. There was nothing irrefutable about it all.

The strokes of both men, drives and volleys, were magnificent; but von Cramm will never know how in the end he cut off a passing shot on the volley as it was speeding to an Australian victory. Even then the light went on and the watchers cheered. Von Cramm, now serving himself, brought Quist back once more. Quist at the net might have been a brick wall, but somehow von Cramm passed him and was ahead at last. And to the twentieth game, in which, what with the net-ecord saving Quist and Quist astonishingly another five match-points before he made an ending. Truly nobody should have lost a match like that.

All the excitement, however, could not make us forget that no player had more masterly control in the trying wind than Crawford, whose strokes, surely the heaviest in the game, were not disturbed in the least. He hit the lines as he used to hit them, served his aces, and came down on his volleys with unerring power. Henkel clearly was not fit enough to stand up to it all; there could be little doubt about the result if he had been.

CHINESE CHESS

HONGKONG BEATS MACAO

IN INTERPORT

Local chess-ki enthusiasts were treated to some clever play by three noted players from Macao: Wong So, Chow Ching, and Sit Ping-kong, respectively Nos. 1, 2, and 3 ranking experts of the Portuguese port. The trio arrived here on Friday last at the special invitation of the South China Athletic Association to engage the cream of the local exponents in the first inter-port contest. The local representatives were Chow Tai-yu, the undefeated champion of North China now domiciled in Hongkong, Mak Shu-man, the newly-crowned open champion of the Colony, and Kong Kung-woon.

A cup, called the Watson Cup, generously donated by Messrs. A. S. Watson and Co., Ltd., the well-known local druggists and mineral water manufacturers, was put up for the competition. This trophy will be competed for annually and is to be won outright by two successive wins.

The games under the auspices of the South China Athletic Association, were played in the auditorium of the Confucian Association, kindly loaned for the occasion by the committee, and were very well attended; large numbers of late comers had to be denied admission on the first evening for lack of even standing room. A small fee of ten cents was collected, but on admission everyone was presented gratis with an artistically decorated set of chess-ki, also a gift of Messrs. A. S. Watson and Co.

NO MATCH FOR HONGKONG

Clever as the Macao players proved to be, they were no match for the local side. However, Chow Tai-yu, the man of the tournament, sensationally lost his second game to Chow Ching at the first meeting; for that, no doubt, he had only himself to blame; for, after registering his initial win, apparently without any serious effort, he took matters too lightly in the second game; with the result that his opponent was given an unusual opportunity to deliberate in mapping out his attack which turned out to be so effective that the great master was forced to resign after 41 moves.

Both Mak Shu-man, the local prodigy, and Kong Kung-woon put up an exceedingly creditable showing. Mak had the measure of Wong So, Macao's first string, in the first game at the second meeting; Wong, however, asserted himself in the following encounter. The pick of the Macao team was undoubtedly Chow Ching. Being alert and calm, he played consistent chess, and secured 3 1/2 points for his side; but his effort was the comfortable margin of 11 to 7.

The full scores were as follows:

Hongkong
	P.	W.	D. L. Pts.
Chow Tai-yu	6	5	0 1 5
Mak Shu-man	6	1	4 1 3
Kong Kung-woon	6	1	4 1 3

Copson In His Best Form

TAKES NINE FOR SEVENTY-NINE

London, Aug. 10.

Copson, the Derbyshire bowler who has been invited to tour Australia with the M.C.C. team, was in magnificent form against Leicestershire and to-day played a leading part in that county's defeat by Derbyshire.

Derbyshire won by nine wickets after Copson, in the course of two innings, had taken 9 for 79. Mitchell also bowled effectively for the visitors, taking 5 for 42 in the second innings.

Geary, the Leicestershire leg-theory bowler showed that he was also capable of making use of a damaged wicket by dismissing five batsmen for 39 runs.

Scoring was naturally low. Leicestershire were all out for 117 in their first knock and in their return visit to the wicket could only compile 97. Derbyshire replied with 159 and 53 for one wicket.—Reuter.

JAPANESE SMUGGLING IN NORTH CHINA

Valentine Phillip McAllister, 42, San Diego, has confessed, police say, to writing five extortion notes to Evangelist Almerie Temple McPherson, demanding $10,000 on the threat of exposing her and blasting her reputation by making public pictures of her in the nude.

Smuggled Japanese merchandise piled up at a railway station to await shipment into Tientsin. Under Japanese control of North China a smuggling industry has sprung up which is seriously affecting Chinese customs revenues.

Germany's Hush-Hush Bombers

STRATOSPHERE PLANES TEST

Berlin, Aug. 1.
GERMANY'S new "Hush-Hush" stratosphere bombers, never yet seen by the public, are expected to participate in air manoeuvres on an unprecedented scale which will take place at Halle, near Leipzig, probably in September.

A large number of the German Air Force machines will take part.

Halle, where the great refineries and dumps of the Luna petrol concern—the largest petrol producers in Germany—are situated, is 100 miles from the Czechoslovakian frontier.

An invading fleet of bombers will "attack" the Luna works. As the heavy, twin-engined Dornier and triple-engined Junker bombers appear converging on Halle from the south and east, swarms of fast fighter machines will rise to intercept them and a mock "battle" will be waged in mid-air.

German engineers have for some time past been concentrating on the development of the new "stratosphere bombers," capable of flying at 20,000ft. to 30,000ft., flying outside the range of any anti-aircraft guns.

A 6 per cent. dividend for this year is announced by the Bavarian Motor Works Engineering Co., which has been manu-

SCHOOL CHILDREN who say "O.K." on every possible occasion are to enjoy a gentle corrective course at the English School Theatre which opens in London next month.

Mrs. Beatrice King's honorary secretary of the theatre, is just back from Russia, where she saw 65 theatres for children.

"In Russia," she says, "the movement is a success. In Britain children are coming to look on the cinema as their only place of entertainment. From that springs their slang."

"We want to counteract it by presenting plays in properly spoken English. After 'London' we shall tackle the provinces."

PUBLIC EXECUTIONS IN PEIPING

Peiping, Aug. 5.
Public executions are of such common occurrence in Peiping as to escape almost all mention in the press. Several times a week all this summer the ominous "Black Maria" has lumbered across the Bridge of Heaven to the execution ground just opposite the gate to the famed Temple of Heaven.

There, on a dusty plot against the ancient wall of the Altar of Agriculture, a man, sometimes two or three, is dragged out with his arms tightly bound behind the back.

On the principle of Sing Sing's famous "last meal" the condemned men are usually allowed all the wine they want before taking their last short walk. This has varying effects. Some strut with alcoholic bravado; some orate dramatically to the ever-present crowd; some stumble along confusedly, held up by their guards.

HARANGUE TO CROWD
A favourite trick is to address a long harangue to the crowd, usually enjoining the audience not to follow in whatever particular footsteps of crime have led the condemned man to his present grisly journey's end. The innate sense of the dramatic in all Chinese often carries these men away on the flights of their own eloquence, even at this time. The crowd is usually generous with its applause.

Then comes the short march to the wall. The condemned man is made to kneel upright facing the wall. A single soldier with a short, large-calibre rifle steps up close behind, fires at the back of the head and the faceless corpse pitches forward. A policeman ascertains that the man is dead, the superintendent official places a black check mark opposite the man's name and the body is placed in a cheap coffin. The crowd disperses.

SOME VARIATIONS

There are variations. Sometimes the executions are not public, especially if the condemned man was tried by a court martial. At these it is commonly reported the criminal must have a goodly sum ready, to bribe his executioners to shoot him in the head. One poverty-stricken young soldier, convicted last year of being a Communist, writhed on the ground with seven bullets in him before being given the coup de grace.

That the wine does not always anaesthetize the criminal was illustrated recently when "Little White Monkey" was executed. When the police van arrived at the Bridge of

Hostess Explains

WAVE OF BROKEN ROMANCES

A MAYFAIR MARRIAGE IS ARRANGED, THE TROUSSEAU IS ORDERED, GILT WEDDING CARDS ARE SENT TO CHOSEN FRIENDS...

Then comes a shattering announcement. "The marriage will not take place."

It has happened again. Another broken Society engagement has just been made public—the 35th this year.

In ten months 2,000 marriages have been cancelled in London registers alone. Never before has there been such a staggering total.

Discussing with a London correspondent, this wave of shattered romances, Lady Rosemary Cassidy, sister of the late Earl of Lathom, said:

THEIR COURAGE

"Modern girls have the courage to break engagements when they realise they have made a wrong choice."

"Because so many Americans have been visiting London for the season, we have caught their habit of rapid-fire proposals."

"Two people meet, announce the match, celebrate it with a party—and then go home to put ice-picks on their heads and think about it."

Prominent London clergymen do not want to marry moderns who are not prepared to take the marriage vows seriously. They are placing a ban on couples who smile glibly at the "I do" till death us do part clause.

VICAR ON BAN

Explaining this ban, the Rev. William Penniman, Vicar of St. Margaret's, Westminster, scene of London's most fashionable marriages, said:

"Many modern couples get married in a church, fully intending to divorce in a year or so if they do not suit one another."

"Such people should get married in a register office—and later come to a church to have their union blessed."

BIG FOKKER LANDS ON ONE WHEEL

Parmentier's Feat

AMBULANCE READY FOR CRASH

K. D. Parmentier, the crack K.L.M. pilot who for many years piloted the Royal Dutch mail planes on the Far East route and put up a record for commercial planes in the London-Melbourne air race in 1934, has added another achievement to his remarkable flying career. When he was taking off from Brussels for Paris recently in one of K.L.M.'s giant Fokkers, with 32 passengers aboard, the tyre on one of the landing wheels burst.

The machine rose from the ground safely.

Parmentier was faced with the task of bringing the plane down on one wheel, with the grave possibility of capsizing.

He wirelessly news of the accident to Paris and flew on.

CRASH EXPECTED

Ambulance and fire-engines were rushed to the landing ground at Paris in anticipation of a crash.

Spectators held their breath as the great Fokker landed on one wheel, with the further wing tip almost touching the ground. It swung round slowly, lost speed and came safely to a standstill.

The passengers stepped out of the plane, without having realised what had happened.

DOOMED ARCHITECT PLANS COFFIN

FOR 40 years Arthur G. Collins, 70-year-old bachelor, of South Chingford, designed bungalows, theatres, business premises.

Two months ago he was told: "Sorry, old man. Your complaint is incurable. Just a matter of waiting." Then he sat down and designed his own coffin.

With death creeping on him every day his nerves cracked under the strain. His mutilated body was found on the railway line at Surbiton.

The dead architect's closest friend, Mr. A. G. Stevens, of Broad Street,

"Poor Arthur was every man's friend. To my knowledge, he had not had a day's illness in his life until about two months ago."

With splendid courage, Mr. Collins kept at his work. His comrades at the British Legion Club rallied round him, cheered him up. But only for a time.

A letter found on Mr. Collins's body willed his remains to surgical research. Among his papers in his workshop was found a detailed sketch of a cedar coffin.

WANCHAI LIQUOR PROBLEM

POLICE OBJECTION TO LICENCE

Police regarded Wanchai as a most difficult district to control and opposed the extension of liquor facilities there, declared the Inspector General of Police (Hon. Mr. T. H. King) at the Licensing Board session yesterday, when it discussed the application for a restaurant adjacent licence by Ishiro Suga, of the Kowloon Restaurant, 64, Gloucester Road.

Mr. King said that two previous applications by the same restaurant had been rejected by the Board because the police considered there were sufficient facilities in the district.

"There are already five establishments with licences controlled by the Wanchai district," said Mr. King, "and we consider it most inexpedient to increase them."

Noting how difficult it was to watch licensed premises, Mr. King said that the regulations prohibiting liquor from being carried away from premises in bottles were often broken.

He recalled how on one occasion police had discovered bottles of beer being pulled up through the windows of a dance hall on the end of a piece of string.

A representative of the applicant said the restaurant had been in existence for six years. The clientele, which was European and Japanese, frequently left the restaurant because no liquor could be served, he said.

After discussion by the Board, a licence to serve beer and sale only was granted, the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell dissenting.

The granting of a hotel keeper's adjacent licence to Mr. Chui Chi-pun, for whom Mr. M. K. Lo appeared, was agreed to without opposition. The licence is for the Sun Sun Hotel, 303, Nathan Road, Kowloon.

The Board fixed its annual session for Friday, November 6, at 3.30 p.m.

Members of the Board present were the Hon. Mr. R. A. C. North (Chairman), the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, and Messrs. H. B. L. Dowling, T. A. Mitchell, J. Mow-lam Wong and C. Champkin. The Hon. Mr. T. H. King (Inspector General of Police) and the Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster (Attorney General) were also present in advisory capacities.

Rebel Forces Win Decisive Fights

MOLA LIKELY TO STRIKE AT MADRID SOON

WOMEN KILLED IN LOYAL BATTALIONS' RANKS

Hendaye, Aug. 11.

Rebel militia claim to have killed and wounded 400 loyalists between Huesca and Saragossa in an engagement in which they captured much war material, including forty automobiles.

Loyalists marching from Barcelona have been forced to requisition food, thereby angering the peasants and enabling the rebels to obtain support of hundreds who have previously been neutral.

The loyalist dead in the engagement, mentioned earlier, included many women, dressed in the blue overall uniform of the Popular Front.

Simultaneously, the Aragon provincial forces virtually wiped out a second loyalist column which was on the march from Catalonia.

These rebel victories have relieved the pressure on Saragossa and may permit General Mola to advance on Madrid within twenty-four hours, due to reduced fears of an attack by loyalists on his rear.—United Press.

Victory Certain

Lisbon, Aug. 10.

The wireless station at Tetuan, which is held by General Franco's supporters, announces that the insurrectionists have captured the town and province of Santander.

"If we win now, Spain will be based on a corporative system, on lines similar to those established in Portugal, Italy and Germany," declared General Franco, in an interview, the text of which has been received here.

General Franco added: "As soon as we take full possession of Spain, all civilians who have been armed by the insurgents and who are co-operating against Madrid, will be asked to return their arms and return to their former occupations. They will have nothing further to do with political affairs."

Declaring that victory was certain, General Franco claimed the Madrid Government had made arrangements to quit the capital as soon as the insurgents' advance began in earnest.—Reuter Special.

Urged to Leave

Washington, Aug. 10.

The United States Embassy has circulated all Americans in Madrid urging them to leave the capital immediately, in view of the increasingly threatening situation.

A conference held at the White House to-day, which was attended by President Roosevelt and the Secretary of the Navy, discussed the possibility of re-establishing an American squadron in European waters.—Reuter.

Advised to Leave

Washington, Aug. 10.

The State Department announces that the American Charge d'Affaires in Madrid has reported the situation there very ominous and has therefore warned all Americans remaining to evacuate to-night on the cruiser Quincy or run the risk of not having transportation available later.—United Press.

Calling Up Reservists

Burgos, Aug. 10.

General Cabanellas, head of the insurgent junta, has issued a decree calling up the reservists of the 1934 and 1935 classes who are not already serving as volunteers.

Any reservist refusing to join up will be punished in accordance with military law.—Reuter.

Dynamite Bombs

Hendaye, Aug. 10.

Two hundred picked miners catapulted dynamite into the rebel barracks at Hendaye, setting fire to the walls and wrecking them.

It is therefore felt that the surrender of the garrison is imminent. General Mola is powerless to assist.—(Continued on Page 5.)

KWANGSI DANGERS REMAIN

NO SETTLEMENT YET ACHIEVED

TWO FACTIONS AT VARIANCE

Shanghai, Aug. 10.

It is reliably learned from Kailang and Canton that negotiators have not yet found a solution to the Kwangsi problem, which is complicated by Kwangsi's reported advance toward the Kwangtung coast.

Vernacular papers say the telegraph between Canton and Pukhoi is disrupted, but Pukhoi is still in the hands of the Kwangtung forces.

General Chiang Han-ping, new Deputy Commander of the Fourth Kwangtung Army, has returned to Canton from Nanking reporting no definite agreement reached as yet.

The Kwangtung Finance Commissioner, Mr. T. L. Soong, is expected to fly to Kuling from Canton Tuesday to confer with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and Mr. H. H. Kung, whereafter he will return to Canton Wednesday or Thursday. Mr. Soong hopes to substitute Central Bank currency for Kwangtung provincial paper money, effective September 1.

The interest from Nanking indicates that a July 31 meeting of Kwangsi Leaders revealed a two-way schism: firstly, Li Chung-jen and Pei Chung-hsi favoured a strong attitude; and a second group recognised the futility of resisting Nanking, appealing to Nanking to preserve the status quo which, generally, is considered most unlikely.—United Press.

MAKING READY

General Chen Chien, Chief of the General Staff at Nanking, arrived here to-day to complete arrangements for the establishment of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters.

He was warmly greeted at the railway station by the leading officers in Canton, including General Yu Han-mow.—Reuter.

HEADLESS BODIES FOUND

Pinar del Rio, Cuba, Aug. 10. The bodies of two wealthy Chinese merchants have been found, beheaded, in their store, and the authorities are seeking a group of unknown bandits in connection with the crime.—United Press.

FEAR OF WAR IN NORTH SUIYUAN INVASION ANTICIPATED EARLY NEXT MONTH

Peiping, Aug. 11.

Many Chinese, usually well-informed, anticipate intense military activity in Inner Mongolia, including the invasion of Suiyuan by large forces of Manchukuo troops and Mongols early in September.

It is reported that a series of meetings have been held in various Mongolian centres since the Chinese New Year, resulting in the enrolling of all males from twenty-five to forty, in battalions to which the Japanese are supplying ammunition.

Chinese officials here and in Nanking consider the position increasingly ominous.—United Press.

JAPANESE ARRIVE

Peiping, Aug. 11.

Though there has been no resumption of the fighting in east Suiyuan, the arrival of two Japanese regiments at Changpei, reported by reliable sources, causes increased tension.

Communication between Suiyuan and Chahar seems to have been interrupted and troops of General Li Shou-hsin are at present remaining at Chengtu, near the Suiyuan border.

News of happenings north of Chahar is most difficult to obtain, the Japanese military authorities at Kalgan refusing permission to all foreigners, and even some Japanese, to travel to Chahar from Kalgan.—Reuter.

RUSSIA IS READY

London, Aug. 11.

The Daily Telegraph's Moscow correspondent cables that M. Krutof, President of the Soviet Far Eastern territory, has declared that the Red Army in the Far East and the Russian Pacific Fleet are "now ready to give an enemy a knock from which they would not soon recover if they attack Russia's frontier."

He added that Russia was spending 3,000,000,000 roubles this year in the Far East alone, double-tracking the Amur River section of the Trans-Siberian Railway is being completed, new railway lines and roads are being constructed, and sea, river, motor and air transport are being developed.—Reuter.

CANTONESE OFFICIAL DETAINED

QUESTIONED BY YU HAN-MOW

Canton, Aug. 11.

Surprise has been caused in Government circles since a high official of the Kwangtung Provincial Government and one of the chiefs of the Provincial Bureau has been detained by order of General Yu Han-mow, pending an investigation into affairs of his Bureau.

The officer worked for many years under the former regime and was recently reappointed to the same post, which has considerable concern with the management of certain Government owned factories.

Yesterday the officer was invited to see General Yu Han-mow at Headquarters. Up to late last night he still remained there, which led to rumours of his detention. He was made to answer questions put to him by General Yu Han-mow, it is understood.

Mr. Huang Lun-shu, the former Commissioner of Education, wired from Shanghai to the Governor here, Huang Mo-sung, stating that permission had been obtained from Marshal Chiang Kai-shek for a passport to be given to General Chen Chien-long for his tour abroad. The Governor was asked to request the Provincial Authorities in Canton to prepare the passport.

Portugal Fears Anarchy Might Tend To Spread Asks for Assurance From Great Britain

London, Aug. 10.

While the Portuguese Government has agreed in principle to the proposed agreement of non-intervention in Spain, it is understood that before Portugal can wholeheartedly support the plan she requires satisfaction on three points by Britain and France.

The first of these concerns the necessity of Russia also participating in the agreement;

The second, respect for the international zone in Tangier by both sides in the Spanish civil war;

And the third is the more intimate matter of Portugal's own security.

Portugal wants reassurance concerning the security of the present regime at Lisbon, believing that anarchy in Spain constitutes a menace to it.

Portugal is apparently anxious to know to what extent she can rely for support upon Great Britain and France in the event of a possible threat to her territorial integrity.

It is pointed out that reaffirmation of the pledge of Britain and France to defend Portugal's territorial integrity under the League of Nations Covenant, might do much to reassure Portugal. There is a likelihood that Britain will be able to recall her obligations under the Anglo-Portuguese alliance.—Reuter.

PERUVIANS LEAVING OLYMPIC GAMES

Berlin, Aug. 10.

The Peruvian Olympic delegation is leaving Berlin, it is reported, as a result of a dispute between Peru officials and the Olympic football authorities.

The football match between Austria and Peru, which Peru won last Saturday by 4-2, was ordered to be replayed because spectators invaded the pitch and hindered the players.

The Peruvians, however, failed to appear to-day for the replay and Austria has entered the semi-finals in consequence of the default.

The Peruvian spokesman said: "We won despite dirty play and dirty refereeing. We are leaving Germany if the incident is not rectified."—United Press.

SPAIN CRISIS COMPLICATED BY SEIZURES

Government Holding German Planes MYSTERY AIR FLEET COMES TO TETUAN

Paris, Aug. 10.

International incidents in Spain have multiplied, making a crisis involving foreign powers more possible.

First, a German freighter, s.s. Bessel, reports, an armed vessel, flying the red flag, pursued her off San Sebastian;

Second, there is the incident of the killing of Capt. Rupert Saville, a British subject, aboard his yacht, the Blue Shadow;

Third, Le Matin, in Paris, reports that an unidentified Paris jeweller has been ordered to sell his stock on behalf of Russia, despatching the proceeds to Spain;

Fourth, the German torpedo-boats Kondor and Moewe have left for Spain to protect nationals, according to a despatch from Berlin;

Fifth, the Spanish Government's confiscation of aeroplanes at Madrid is confirmed. These machines are believed to belong to the German Lufthansa line, which has announced it will maintain its service to Madrid "as long as possible."—United Press.

Carrying Munitions

Madrid, Aug. 10.

The War Ministry has announced that troops have captured a German Junkers plane, carrying military armaments, and a crew of four, at a point sixty miles north of Seville. Shortly before this announcement, Madrid newspapers reported the inexplicable delay of a Lufthansa airliner.

Further, loyalists are reported to have seized four more Junkers planes which were waiting to evacuate German refugees at Barajas aerodrome. The German Embassy makes no comment, except that it emphatically denies that any Germans were occupying the seized aeroplanes. The interruption of the Lufthansa service is due, it is stated, to "local reasons" and it is hoped the service will be resumed shortly.—United Press.

Mysterious Aircraft

London, Aug. 11.

Mystery has been created by the report of the arrival at Tetuan on August 9 of twenty-one aeroplanes. An official spokesman in Rome has stated that the report that they departed from Orbetello airport, near Rome, is false.

On the other hand, Paris has received despatches from Tangier to the effect that the Spanish insurgent headquarters at Tetuan has confirmed the arrival of the planes. But the insurgents declare they are Spanish machines.—Reuter.

U.S. To Be Invited

London, Aug. 10.

It is reliably learned that France is preparing to invite the United States to adhere to the European pact of non-intervention in Spain.

It is said that Baron von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, on Saturday, told the British and French Ambassadors that Germany agrees in principle to the neutrality pact, but feels the United States' adherence is necessary.—United Press.

Seizure Confirmed

Berlin, Aug. 10.

The Spanish Government has confiscated aeroplanes of the German Lufthansa line which had, up to now, been used to evacuate German refugees from Madrid, according to an official announcement.

Simultaneously, it was stated that it had had proved necessary to send two more German torpedo-boats, the Kondor and the Moewe, to protect the repatriation of nationals.

Already 4,100 Germans have been evacuated, but there are still about 1,400 remaining, of whom 300 wish to stay in Spain for economic reasons.—Reuter Special.

U.S. European Squadron?
Washington, Aug. 10.

Mr. Claude Swanson, Secretary of the Navy, visited the White House to-day, whereafter Acting Secretary of the Navy, Admiral William Standley, said he had discussed with President Roosevelt the possibility of sending a U.S. European Squadron.—(Continued on Page 5.)

ANOTHER BRITISH PROTEST

OVER KILLING OF CAPT. SAVILLE WARSHIP'S MESSAGE

London, Aug. 10.

The British Ambassador in Spain has sent a protest to the Spanish rebels, shells from whose warship, Almirante Cervera, killed Capt. Rupert Saville and gravely wounded his wife while they were aboard their private yacht off Gijon, on the north-east coast of Spain.

The Ambassador reserves the right to claim compensation.

A British warship has sent a wireless protest to the rebel cruiser, Almirante Cervera.

The Spanish authorities at Gijon have tendered their regrets for the shelling of the British yacht, though they point out a rebel cruiser was responsible.—Reuter.

STRONG PROTEST

London, Aug. 10.

The British Ambassador in Spain has sent a message to the Officer Commanding the Spanish cruiser Almirante Cervera, a shell from which yesterday, at Gijon, struck the 54 ton yacht Blue Shadow, belonging to the British subject Captain Rupert Saville, killing him and severely wounding his wife.

Sir Henry Chilton protests strongly against the action of the cruiser and draws attention to the fact that Blue Shadow was flying the Blue Ensign.

Pending instructions from his Government, the Ambassador reserves the right to claim compensation.

It is reported from St. Jean de Luz, where Mrs. Saville is in hospital, that her condition is satisfactory and her recovery is expected. She was wounded in both legs by shrapnel. Another press message stated the Spanish authorities have tendered an expression of their sincerest regrets to the Commander of H.M.S. Comet on the death of Captain Saville and wounding of his wife although the Almirante Cervera from which the shell was fired, is a ship which deserted to the insurgents.—British Wireless.

LORD HALIFAX BUSY

London, Aug. 10.

Lord Halifax, who is acting for the Foreign Secretary during the latter's absence on holiday, was again at the Foreign Office to-day for the transaction of routine business.—British Wireless.

LIVE a DOUBLE LIFE with your Camera

by H. L. SPOONER

WOULD you like to live twice over? This is probably sounds like a question prefacing a treatise on some ultra-scientific problem. Actually it is a simple homely question.

True it is prompted by a Latin quotation which I came across the other day. It runs:—"To be able to enjoy the recollection of one's past life, this is to live twice over."

Most of us would like to—if we could control the things we would recollect.

But a good memory is relentless. It mirrors all the past, pleasant and otherwise.

Only an "artificial memory" will enable us to pick out the bright spots of days gone by.

The only "artificial memory" I know is a camera, and so if you would live twice over become a photographer or—if that sounds too formidable—a snapshotter.

This delightful snap and the one on the right were submitted in a recent Competition at Home.

Even if you have never handled a camera before, I can assure you it is not difficult. Do not expect to become a professional photographer in five minutes, because that is not necessary.

I want to persuade you to become a snapshotter, so that you may have a chance of winning the magnificent trophy, or even one of the smaller prizes, offered in this year's "Telegraph" competition.

Many of you may think that it is necessary to have years of photographic experience before attempting to lift a "plum" and that only pictures from experts win prizes.

This is far from true, for a professional photographer with many years' experience confessed to me the other day, when admiring some of the pictures which have won prizes in our competition:—"Even if I was allowed to enter this competition I could never win a prize."

This may surprise you, but there was sound common-sense in his reasoning. Most of the pictures, he argued, were so simple that he could not think of taking them. He would strive, he admitted, for something very clever, and would fail because, whilst the result might be photographically perfect, the picture would label itself "professional" and would probably lack the unposed charm of a genuine snap.

The result of last year's contest also proves this. Most "Telegraph" readers are familiar with the wonderful picture which carried off the prize.

Who could have said when the competition was launched that a Chinese girl at prayer would be the subject that would carry off the coveted Bford Trophy? Or that a snap of a little girl in her bath-tub would carry off the prize for Section One?

It was only because the photo of the little girl was natural and unposed, full of human appeal, that it immediately caught the eyes of the judges.

What is more important is that it could have been taken anywhere. No beautiful surroundings were required for a picture of this type.

The story of one year's prize-winning picture provides another moral. The man who took it submitted it only because he was urged to by his wife. She wanted a new hat!

Think of it! He won because his wife thought a cash prize would help her to obtain a much-coveted hat.

And the moral? Do not stern a critic of your own—leave the judges to do. The important thing is to have your camera with you so that you never miss an opportunity.

Personally, I have seen hundreds of thousands of photographs, and I am told I must get tired of pictures, but I would rather leave half my luggage at home than go away without a camera.

To see a picture and not have a camera is the most distressing experience for any photographer.

A professional golfer or an engineer likes to go away and forget his work, but a photographer—professional or amateur—is always looking for pictures.

If he finds one, and is unprepared, he is a sad, but wiser man. If you have read this far you will probably ask: "Yes, but what sort of picture is likely to win a prize?"

Who can tell? You are the only one who can decide if the incident or scene before you makes a picture.

But, generally speaking, you may take it that the happiest and most effective pictures are the simplest.

Unless you are very lucky, a posed picture of, say, a very young batsman on the beach will not be nearly so effective as an unposed picture of that youthful cricketer snapped when he is unaware of the camera.

I know that the film producer releases his cast until sometimes the players are weary, in an effort to make them appear natural before the camera. But so few people are born actors. Subjects for snapshots are to be found everywhere. Photograph your children, your pets, your friends and even strangers. Photograph them at home or on holiday.

... the happiest and most effective pictures are the simplest ...

Any one of those snaps may win you a prize—and they will help you to live twice over!

Cooling Drink

DURING the hot weather summer cups are most popular. In some of these long drinks a dash of alcohol is added, but many people prefer non-alcoholic beverages.

There is always lemonade, orangeade and the various squashes, but if something slightly different is required the following ingredients make a most delicious cooling drink.

The particular mixture given below may be new to some readers.

1½ gills orange juice, 1 dessertspoon lemon juice, 4oz. sugar, 1 pint ginger ale, Soda water to taste, A few cherries.

Method: Strain the fruit juice over the sugar in a jug and leave to stand for three to four hours.

Add the cherries, and pour the ginger ale over the fruit, and add sufficient soda water to enliven and blend to taste (about 1 pint bottle). Put a lump of ice into the jug, and serve at once.

Learn to Swim Well

No. 4.—The BREAST-CRAWL

If you are in a bath or narrow pool there is a good game you can play with some friends, called "Mind the Shark." It is equally good fun in deep or shallow water.

One player stays in the middle—he is the shark. All the others dash in from the side of the pool to the other, trying to escape the shark. They can wade, swim, plunge, or go how they like. All those touched by the shark either drop out of the game or stay in and become sharks themselves, until everyone has been caught.

Your breast-stroke will be pretty good by now, and will no longer be using dog-paddle much. But you can begin to learn crawl, or breast-crawl, the full name should be. Already you have a very important thing to learn—the breathing.

Bring in fresh breath through the mouth, in a quick gulp, is really the hardest thing about the breast-crawl—and you should be quite used to this by now. So do it each day, but practise arms and legs separately as well. For the legs, grip the bath-side so that you lie face downwards along the surface. Thrash the legs up and down, not too fast. Each foot should go down about 12 inches, one rising while the other falls. Only the heels should show at the surface. Keep the knees still and point the feet. Turn the toes in.

ARM PRACTICE

For the arm practice, stand breast-deep and lean forward. One arm drives back through the water, while the other recovers forward through the air. For the drive, dip the flat hand right in front of the head and send it down under the body straight and hard. Lift it from the water by the side. Turn the palm downward; swing the forearm round till it points to the front; push the arm forward to full stretch. All that recovery movement must be smooth and fairly quick.

Keep on with your plunge practice, trying to glide a fair way before you lift your head. Keep the head down between the arms as you glide and press the elbows in against the ears. You can start the crawl leg-thrash as you glide from your plunge. If done properly, it will make you travel farther.

Wisdom Of Establishing Permanent Stations In The Pacific

Eat, Drink, Play This Way—

If You Want To Live To Be 100—Or
To Be Young At 80

DO you want to live to be 100? Do you want to be a spruce, powerful young man or woman at 80, able to indulge in sport and never know a day's illness?

Then listen to Sir William Arbuthnot Lane, who has just celebrated his 80th birthday, and who hopes to reach his century and still be as fit as a fiddle.

"The whole secret of being healthy is the simplest thing in the world," he said.

"The secret is—cleanliness. Keep yourself clean both inside and outside and you will never have cause to fear an old age of lingering illness."

Sir William was asked about his plan to celebrate his hundredth birthday in 1956.

"Believe me, I have no intention of altering my ways of living," he said. "I hope to continue having a bit of salmon fishing, enjoying my walks in the country, having a drink when I feel like one and eating sensibly."

"I am not a crank who says that you mustn't smoke and mustn't drink. Alcohol is a food and, taken properly, is a very pleasant food."

SMOKING AND EATING

"And there is just one more point of advice. Everyone should eat lots of green vegetables and salads."

"Further, don't eat so heartily that you become fat and flabby."

LAWRENCE OF ARABIA: VANDALS AT GRAVE

HIDDEN away in the quiet wilderness of Mor-ton Heath, Dorset, in a piece of recently consecrated ground is the grave of Lawrence of Arabia.

But not too secret or sacred for souvenir hunters is the last resting place of that elusive and romantic figure.

Hundreds of visitors arrive every week to view the grave. Few leave without taking some memento of their visit.

Others have even walked over the grave, until the grass on the top of this simple mound has worn thin.

A small shrub which grows at the head of the grave has been stripped and cut until only a bare stump remains. When I visited the grave (writes a London reporter), there were just a few flowers. "And they won't be there long," my guide told me.

GARBO'S NEW CAR

She Had Last One Ten Years

FOR ten years the Hollywood studio gatekeepers have known a battered, black, faded saloon car.

They have always passed it through the gate with a nod to the chauffeur.

It was the only car Greta Garbo had had since she became a film star.

A shiny, black seven-passenger new limousine with a sleek and sporty chauffeur whizzed into the studio last week. Officers, jumped to the running-board to stop the strange car.

LESS SOLITARY

The chauffeur nodded toward the rear.

It was Garbo paying her first visit to the studios since her return to Hollywood after a long holiday in Sweden.

Garbo is reported to have become less solitary and secretive while on holiday. Her smart new car is Hollywood's first evidence of a change.

Film Star Leaves £300,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Thomas Meighan, famous film star of the silent screen, who died a fortnight ago, left between £300,000 and £400,000. This is revealed by his will filed at Mimeo, Long Island. Meighan was fifty-eight.

POSITION CHANGED BY INDEPENDENCE OF PHILIPPINES

Strategic Possibilities Of Anglo-American Front
MANILA NEAR TO SINGAPORE

Washington, July 28.

THE advisability of maintaining permanent United States naval bases in the Philippine Islands has already been given careful attention by the Navy Department, despite the fact that a final decision in the matter is not required before the effective date of Philippine independence ten years hence, it is learned here.

Continued political attention to the Far East, coupled with the development of a Philippine military establishment in the newborn Commonwealth has caused high naval officers individually to weigh the arguments for and against United States naval defence of future independent Philippines.

DIFFICULTY OF LONG LINES OF COMMUNICATION

A SHARP division of opinion has already developed between schools of different strategic thought as to the wisdom of establishing permanent bases in the Islands.

Under the Tydings-McDuffie Independence Act, the question of naval bases was not decided upon but reserved for negotiation after independence is in effect. This fact has invited continued speculation on American naval policy.

One group of high naval authorities feels that the arguments against permanent bases in the Philippines, in the light of the present situation, outweigh the reasons advanced in favour of such bases. Such opinion is obviously merely preliminary, in view of unstable factors in Far Eastern politics and commerce, and the fact that air warfare is still in its infancy.

These officers are of the opinion that the present volume of United States trade in the Far East is not sufficient to warrant the strategic risks involved in permanent naval fortification of the Philippines, and that naval bases in the Far East would contradict a defence system based on the Hawaiian Islands as the main defensive outpost in the Pacific.

THE ARGUMENTS

The arguments for and against bases in the Philippines, as unofficially commented upon among naval experts at the present time run along the following lines:—

Favourable to permanent bases:—Diplomatic policies, particularly the principle of the "open door" in China trade, require well-organized defence facilities in Far Eastern waters.

American trans-Pacific marine and air routes and around-the-world lines logically require a Pacific base to support the necessary naval protection.

An American base in the Philippines, fairly close to the British base at Singapore, would offer strategic possibility of an Anglo-American naval "front" in the event of an emergency affecting both the United States and the British Dominions.

A powerful naval base in the southern Philippines, adequate to support a considerable number of warships, might theoretically enable strategic control of the immensely important Netherlands-Indian petroleum, tin, fibres, vegetable oils and other indispensable war materials; and Permanent bases would guarantee the American political status in the Philippines. If people of the Islands should later decide that their own best interests would lie under some form of American protectorate, rather than complete separation.

CONTRARY VIEWS

The arguments unfavourable to fortification, as advanced in high circles are:—

Establishment of naval bases in the Philippines would compel the United States to maintain a strategic plan featured by extremely long lines of communication and great difficulties of maintenance in event of a war; many high officers believe it would be virtually impossible to hold such bases in event of a major conflict.

The Philippines lack industrial facilities to support fleets stationed in the Islands if the long lines of communication to the United States were intercepted by an enemy.

Establishment of a base in the Islands would logically require the United States to have sub-bases in Guam or other intermediate Islands which would bring the naval establishment permanently face to face with the Japanese navy, without any intermediate "no man's land" sustained by diplomacy or mutual agreement.

The naval bases could not decisively injure an enemy's commerce even if powerful battleships were stationed here, because most strategic materials have alternative routes to any possibly powerful enemy in Asia; and

Maintenance of a base and fleet in the Philippines would be extremely costly and the huge appropriations involved, some experts here believe, might better be spent in less distant fortifications.

FALSE COLDS

Kansas City, Mo., July 21.—Sufferers from sinusitis, who are peevishly loathe "false" colds, are the human carriers of real colds, Dr. Edward C. Sewall of San Francisco declares.

Dr. Sewall addressed the section on diseases of the nose and throat at the recent convention of the American Medical Association.

"Cold weather influences adversely persons with chronic sinusitis," Dr. Sewall said, "and causes them to become active carriers of colds."

Dr. Marvin M. Cullom of Nashville, Tenn., blamed sinusitis for 85 per cent. of infections of the middle ear and mastoid. "Such infections are a menace to life, health and hearing," he said.—United Press.

BOY KING OF SIAM

Singapore, July 29.

The boy King of Siam, Ananda Mahidol I, will visit Bangkok next November during the cool season.

This will be his first visit to his country since his accession last year on the abdication of ex-King Prajadhipok who is now living in exile in England.

The boy King, who is 11, is at school in Switzerland with his mother. During his visit to Bangkok he will be "presented to the people" but the coronation ceremony will not take place until he becomes of age.—United Press.

ANOTHER SOLAR ECLIPSE

VISIBLE IN H.K.

Nanking, Aug. 1.

"The valuable experience gathered by the Chinese solar eclipse expedition to Hokkaido, Japan, on last June 19 will be useful to China for observing the next similar heavenly phenomenon which will be seen along the Yangtze Valley at noon on Sept. 21, 1941."

Thus remarked Dr. Yu Ching-sung, director of the Nanking Purple Mountain Observatory, and head of the said expedition, in a recent radio broadcast.

Distinguishing itself as the first astronomical expedition ever dispatched by China, the group, composed of six noted Chinese astronomers, garnered notable results in their observations.

In addition to taking three excellent photographs of the corona which will serve as a valuable aid in the study of its light intensity, the expedition also took moving pictures of the solar phenomenon.

FOR 3,368 YEARS

Turning to statistical records of the solar phenomenon, Dr. Yu said that during the past 3,368 years, there have been a total of 8,000 solar eclipses or 237 times in every 100 years. Of this number, however, only in 66 times did the moon completely obstruct the light of the sun.

The chances of observing the total eclipse of the sun from China, which occupies approximately two per cent. of the earth's surface, are much fewer, there being about once in every 100 years. A perusal of Chinese annals shows that within a period of 400 years, from 1,542 till the present, there have been 20 total solar eclipses seen in China of which only four were seen at noon.

In the next 100 years, Dr. Yu predicted, there will be 10 total eclipses to be seen in China, of which only one will take place at noon.

LAST IN 152 A.D.

The chances of the total eclipse of the sun happening at noon and seen in densely-populated regions along the Yangtze and the Hwangho valleys are scarce if not rare. Within a long period of 500 years, only two occurred. One on Aug. 11, 1542, in the Ming dynasty and was seen along the Yellow River valley. The other will take place on Sept. 21, 1941, Dr. Yu stated.

A humorous touch was injected into his speech when he said that as the sky darkened, flocks of crows were seen flying back to their nests and within 20 minutes after the eclipse, he heard some crows crow. "They must have mistaken the heavenly phenomenon for dawn."

Dr. Yu concluded by paying a warm tribute to the host of foreign scientists who went to Khabarovsk and Hokkaido from great distances and at immense expenses just to observe the momentary solar phenomenon against extreme uncertainty.

Under the able administration of Dr. Yu, the Purple Mountain Observatory, built at a cost of $300,000 and claimed to be the largest of its kind in China, has achieved notable results in solar research—the study of variable stars and spectro-photometry, and the determination of time. It has, furthermore, established close connections with all leading observatories in the world.—Central News.

FUTURE OF
COLONIES

Despite frequent statements that Britain is not disposed to surrender any of her Colonies or mandated territories, in return for Germany's re-entry into the League of Nations, a fear still persists in certain parliamentary circles that she may, under pressure, accede to some such demand.
Accordingly, a group of leading
M.P.'s has issued a manifesto expressing the view that such a course would be morally unjustifiable and politically dangerous.
It is pointed out that under Article
119 of the Treaty of Versailles, Germany "renounced in favour of the principal Allied and associated Powers" (not the League of Nations) "all her rights and titles over her overseas possessions" and it is suggested that Britain has no right to barter away as a mere counter in the European game vast native populations, as well as many British settlers, who have been given clear pledges by successive British Governments that the protection of British rule would never be withdrawn. Germany's demand for colonies is usually based on the need of access to raw materials, and of an outlet for her surplus population. But facts show conclusively, in the view of the authors of the manifesto referred to, that the return of her former colonies would make no appreciable difference to Germany's economic position.
There is to-day no discrimination in regard to the export of raw materials from any of these territories. Moreover, between 1904 and 1913 on an average only 33 persons emigrated annually from Germany to her colonies, and in 1913 her colonies supplied only one half per cent. of her total imports. On the other hand, the cession of the mandated territories to Germany would seriously weaken the strategic unity of the British Empire.
Tanganyika, for example, in the hands of a foreign Power, apart from interrupting the continuity of British territory from Egypt to the Cape, would endanger the lines of communication with India, Australia, and the East.
The entry of Germany into Africa would thus necessitate a further vast extension of Britain's defence programme and its already crushing burden. A further point made is that the Governments of most of the other mandatory Powers, including the British Dominions, have declared their unwillingness to consider any such cession, and it is thus urged that the British Government should, once and for all, indicate its definite adherence to a like line of policy. This issue, it will be recalled, was mentioned in the questionnaire sent some months ago to the German Government, in an effort to secure elucidation of Herr Hitler's ideas, but up to the present no reply has been vouchsafed to this document.

ASK your child these twenty questions (designed primarily for children from eight to fifteen).

The answers will provide valuable clues to his character, his real happiness, and the career that is likely to suit him.

Point out to him that it is not a test but just a way of finding out what children really think about, and what they really wish for. There are no right answers and no wrong answers, and each child will answer differently.

This questionnaire, based on the findings of psychological analysis, has been set by a practising psychiatrist, who has also prepared a key to the answers.

The key to the clues provided by the answers will be published on Wednesday (You might cut this page out and make a note of the answers for comparison.)

NOTES OF THE DAY

We have perhaps been lacking in sympathy when we grinned at the man who surreptitiously wiped his eyes at some heart-rending crisis in a cinema, and we have possibly been among those who shouted angrily when some player on a football field lost his temper and lashed out at an opponent. No, there is probably no relationship between the reaction. But the point is that sport, like fiction, can move the strongest to tears and angry violence. We admit that the spectacle of a weeping supporter of a football team is a rarity, but we have known athletes, men and women, to cry both in victory and defeat. When little Joffat scored the goal which won the Flying Frenchmen of Montreal the world's ice hockey championship against Victoria some years ago, he sobbed into his padded gloves.
When Schmeling beat Jack Shar-

None the less, it may again come into the limelight in the near future, for which reason it is to be hoped that there will be no dubious about Britain's policy.

Am I just like him?—Yes—A little—Not at all.
Do I wish to be just like him?—Yes—A little—Not at all.

CHIANG BUILDING HUGE DEFENCE WORKS

To Keep Japanese In North China

FORTRESSES, BIG GUNS, RAILWAYS, AERODROMES, ROADS & NAVAL BASE

Spending Millions Of Dollars Monthly

SHANGHAI, JULY 30. DETAILS OF ELABORATE DEFENCE MEASURES WHICH ARE BEING SECRETLY CARRIED ON IN DIFFERENT PARTS OF CHINA WERE PUBLISHED IN THE CHUNG KUNG SUN TUESDAY.

Marshal Chiang Kai-shek is reported to be spending several million dollars monthly, building fortresses, constructing a network of motor roads and railways and building aerodromes in the regions on the south bank of the Yellow River.

The defence line built there is exactly the same as those built by the Soviet along the Siberia-Manchukuo borders.

Over 200,000 Central troops are fortifying a defence line of over 800 miles, extending from the port of Hanchow, in East Kiangsu, to the emergency capital of China, the city of Loyang, with Hanchow and Kaifeng as the main military base and air base respectively.

The second line defence measures are being built between Shanghai and Ichang, which is about 1,100 miles long. The city of Nanking and the river port of Hankow are strongly fortified against air and naval attacks.

30 Billion Cycles Per Second

ATTAINED BY CHINESE RADIO ENGINEER

Pasadena, Calif., July 21. The world's tiniest radio valve, smaller than a housefly, has been demonstrated at the California Institute of Technology.

It broadcasts on the world's shortest man-made wave-length of one-third inch and highest of all frequencies, 30 billion cycles per second.

The shortest waves that amateur wireless operators use are 300 times as long as those of the tiny tube. House current has the frequency of 60 cycles compared to its 30,000,000,000 cycles.

THREE YEARS' WORK. A slight young Chinese research student, Dr. C. Y. Meng, took three years of meticulous and patient work to develop the tube for use in investigating the fundamental properties of matter. He operated almost entirely with the use of a high powered microscopical much of the time with no materials in a vacuum.

The tube looks about the right size for a doll house radio, a good-sized housefly held in front of the bit of wire and glass tube in his construction of the almost invisibly small grid which has been the obstacle to other efforts to reduce the size of vacuum tubes.

Dr. Meng, the brilliant physicist who finer than the smallest hair and equalled it in a tiny spring of 13 coils only, diameter and two-hundredths of an inch long, smaller than a section of the sewing needle.

To accomplish this, Dr. Meng tempered the tungsten with heat inside a high vacuum chamber to prevent it from breaking. No coil this small has ever been obtained before by other processes.

So close are the filament and plate of the tube, with only the dimly visible grid separating them, that a strong breeze from one side to the other at astonishingly high frequency.

The buzzing electrons generate exceedingly fine waves, so dense fog or rain absorbs them. The use of the tubes is not for radio work, however, but in attacking the fundamental problem of structure of matter.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

HE THAT TROUBLES NOT HIMSELF WITH ANXIOUS THOUGHTS FOR MORE THAN NINE MONTHS LIVES LITTLE LESS THAN THE LIFE OF ANGELS, WHOSE MIND IS CONTENT WITH LITTLE, HE IMITATES THEIR WANT OF NOTHING.

Suffering from the effects of immersion, when he jumped off a Yaumati ferry yesterday, Chuen Wo, 21, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment, where it is reported that his condition is not serious.

A further remand of four days was granted Inspector W. L. Chester Woods by Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, in a case in which Leung Kwai, aged 20, is charged with the larceny of a bicycle from No. 161 Leichikok Road. Defendant was stated by the Inspector to be in hospital, and there was also a possibility of the bicycle being recovered. It will be recalled that defendant stated that he tried to ride the bicycle over the border at Shum-chun, and being unable to pay duty on it, had it seized by the Customs officials.

Admitting the theft of 45 cents from a widow at Boundary Street yesterday, Ng Yu, aged 25, unemployed, was sentenced to one month's hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. Inspector W. L. Chester Woods said complainant was about to take some money from her pocket to make a purchase when the 45 cents, wrapped in a piece of paper, fell through a hole in her jacket pocket on to the ground. She bent to pick it up, but defendant picked it up first. When caught by an Indian, the money was still in his left hand.

Tung Yee-mui, 20, single woman, residing in an un-numbered hut in Chatham Road, was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday, suffering from poisoning effects. The woman, who had been sick the previous day, went to Yaumati to take some Chinese medicine, after which she felt worse, and, on being examined at the hospital, was found to be suffering from poisoning. Her condition is not serious.

Chiu Lin-tak, unemployed, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of larceny of several glass panes from Nos. 226 and 240 Hai Tan Street. Woods stated that defendant was arrested by a Chinese detective-sergeant and admitted taking the panes from the addresses. The glass had been taken off the skylight of both houses. Sentence of one month's hard labour was passed.

JAPANESE SMUGGLING IN NORTH CHINA

Valentine Philip McAuliff, 42, San Diego, has confessed, police say, to writing five extortion notes to Evangelist Albee Simple McPherson, demanding $10,000 on the threat of exposing her and blurring her reputation by making public pictures of her in the nude.

Smuggled Japanese merchandise piled up at a railway station to await shipment into Tientsin. Under Japanese control of North China a smuggling industry has sprung up which is seriously affecting Chinese customs revenues.

Witnesses Shooed From Inquiry

Erwin (Pete) Werner and his wife, "Queen Helen," whose names sparked brightly in testimony before a California legislative committee investigating the state's liquor situation, were banned from attending proceedings, but were later to be called as witnesses.

Film Magazine Swindled

CANVASSER SENT TO PRISON

Kwok Gook-yan appeared before Mr. S. P. Balfour at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with swindling by false promises the sum of $28 from the Far East Enterprises. Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the prosecution.

It was stated that defendant went, on July 13, to the Java-China Japan Line and secured a contract with the company which entitled them to an advertisement in the film magazine, Cineka, leading the advertisers to believe that no charge would be made. Defendant erased the clause, "free of charge," and substituted "$140" in its place. On the commission basis of 20 per cent. of advertisements secured, defendant was paid $28 by his employer, Tan Tien-chang, the complainant. Defendant led complainant to believe that the Java-China Japan Line had given him a promissory note in payment of the advertisement.

Defendant was asked by His Worship if he wished to secure legal defence, but he stated that he did not know whether or not to plead guilty. He added that the name given on the charge was not his real name, and that he was not in a financial position to secure the services of a lawyer.

His Worship told defendant that the services of a lawyer could only be secured for him, but defendant decided to plead guilty.

"H. K. Kwan is my proper name," stated defendant. "I had a previous conviction, so I had to change my name to get a job."

da Silva stated that there were several cases of a similar nature, in which defendant was suspected, but that this particular case was chosen as it was the most specific.

His Worship passed sentence of two months' imprisonment on defendant.

RADIATOR CAP THEFTS

YOUTH GETS MONTH IN GAOL

Two radiator caps, valued at $10 each, stolen from private cars on Sunday, were returned to their owners at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when the thief was convicted by Mr. E. Himsforth.

Ho Kan, unemployed 18-year-old youth, admitted stealing one cap from private car No. 1056, the property of Mr. Gutierrez, 8 Cameron Road, which had been parked outside his residence, and the other from car No. 17, outside the Harbour View Hotel, belonging to Mr. Gardiner, living at that address.

Det.-Sgt. Haynes said the youth was arrested by Detective C462 in Des Voeux Road, near Ramsay Street, carrying the caps. He admitted stealing them and took the police to the scenes of the thefts.

Pleading that it was his first offence, Ho was fined $10, or four weeks' hard labour.

DEATH FROM SNAKE-BITE

Chan Kung, 70, residing at a hut in Tai Hang Road, was bitten by a snake, whilst working in his garden three days ago. He paid little attention to the bite, but yesterday was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital, where he died soon after admission.

BRITISH AGRICULTURE

London, Aug. 10.
It is officially estimated that the value of agricultural and horticultural produce in England and Wales rose from £201,750,000 in the year 1933-1934 to £208,750,000 in 1934-35.—British Wireless.

Aircraftman C. D. S. White died as a result of his wounds.

A lieutenant of the Seaforth Highlanders was killed to-day when his car crashed as a result of the explosion of a mine in the road near Nablus.

Three other ranks were injured in the same mishap.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

CARDINALS DEFEAT CHICAGO

CUBS AGAIN FAIL TO BEAT RIVALS

New York, Aug. 10.
St. Louis Cardinals, leading the National League by a slim margin, with Chicago in second berth, beat their nearest rivals to-day by seven runs to three. Chicago, in the last several seasons when the club has met the Cardinals, has failed to master the St. Louis attack or penetrate its defence.

St. Louis won its game on fifteen hits to eleven, taking full advantage of two Chicago errors.

Jackson's home helped New York greatly, for it turned nine hits into five runs.

Boston beat Philadelphia, hitting sixteen for nine runs, while E. Moore gave the Braves a homer, and the Phillies had to be content with seven runs on eleven connections. Norris hit a homer, but the fielding was sometimes ragged, and cost the club four errors.

In the American League, Washington took the New York Yankees measure, whipping the League leaders thirteen to four. The Senators hit eighteen times and Lewis got a homer. Gehrig, as usual, hit a home run for the Yankees, but his mates could only connect with seven balls and they committed two errors in the field.—Reuter.

Dollar Ship's Crew Strikes At Singapore

Singapore, Aug. 11.
The engine-room and deck crews and stewards aboard the President Hayes, Dollar steamer, have struck here.

Their strike follows the disciplinary action of the master, Capt. Pierson, who demoted a fireman because he refused to obey orders.

Sixty-four men of the crew of 114 have struck.—United Press.

The strike has now been settled and an inquiry will be held when the ship reaches San Francisco.—United Press.

RADIO OFFICE CUT OFF

FAULT QUICKLY REMEDIED

Although usual radio point-to-point channels were open this morning between Cape D'Aguiar and other centres, the Central Radio Office in Des Voeux Road was unable to send or receive messages because of a breakdown in the landline between the city and Cape D'Aguiar.

The cause of the break is now known. Mechanics were operating on the landline as soon as the fault was discovered, and it was later notified that the service was again normal.

ROAD CENSUS LATEST BRITISH INQUIRY

London, Aug. 10.
A week's census of traffic on second-class roads, on the same lines as last year's census on first-class roads, started to-day. Some 8,000 enumerators are counting every type of traffic, including pedestrians, at over 4,000 points on 16,800 miles of roads.

The results of last year's count have proved helpful to the authorities in making plans for road improvements, and, in consequence, the inquiry is being extended to second-class roads.—British Wireless.

A Notorious Pickpocket

FOURTH OFFENCE PROVED

A safety-razor blade, one of its edges covered with little strips of cardboard, was exhibited at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when a notorious pickpocket dressed in European clothes, was charged before Mr. E. Himsforth with loitering with intent to commit a felony. The latest offence of this man, Wong Siu-ki, alias Fel Deal-ki, convicted three times for larceny from the person, was that he acted in such a way at the Star Ferry Wharf, Kowloon, as to arouse the suspicions of a Chinese detective.

When Wong pleaded that he was merely attempting to cross the harbour, Detective Cheung Wing-kan, stated that he was just outside the first-class entrance about 7.45 p.m. on Monday, when he saw Wong, jacked over left arm, approach a would-be passenger. In his right arm he carried the razor blade. He had touched his intended victim's pocket when the detective came nearer to effect an arrest. Another man, acting as a look-out for Wong, tried to warn him, but witness was too quick, catching hold of Wong. The look-out, however, managed to get away.

After the detective's evidence, Wong admitted that he had been trying to steal.

Det.-Sgt. Haynes, prosecuting, said that during the last two months, there had been nine complaints of pickpocketing between the Kowloon-Canton Railway Station and the ferry, including one $4,000 theft. Within the last two weeks, a $305 and a $50 larceny were also reported. The police were taking a very serious view of these crimes.

Sentence of six months' hard labour, followed by two years' police supervision, was passed.

ANOTHER CASE

Tai Tui, 35, tailor, was charged before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy, this morning with the theft of $10 from Choi Wan-nan, shop-keeper, at Morrison Street yesterday.

Detective-Sergeant J. S. Riddell said that at about 2.30 p.m. yesterday complainant was walking in Morrison Street. Defendant came out of Wing Lok Street, and passing complainant put his hand into complainant's left jacket and took the money. Complainant immediately caught hold of defendant, who dropped the money.

Defendant admitted the charge, but was remanded for 24 hours, as he stated he could get work.

TRIBUTE TO LOST MINERS

COLLIERIES TO STOP WORK THURSDAY

London, Aug. 10.
Work will be stopped in all the collieries in Britain on Thursday as a tribute to the memory of the fifty-five victims of the Wharfedale Woodmoor colliery disaster at Barnsley.

Mr. Joseph Jones, President of the National Mineworkers' Federation, states that he has instructed the secretaries of all districts to arrange for the observance of Thursday as a day of mourning throughout the British coalfields.—Reuter Special.

TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Wong Sum, a learner driver, has reported that about 9 a.m. yesterday whilst driving lorry No. 723, along Queen's Road East, near Arsenal Street, a man, Chan Fok, 64, ran in front of the vehicle and was knocked down, after which the lorry collided with a tramcar. The man was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital for treatment. His condition is not serious.

A licensed bus driver, Chuen Piu, has reported to the police that about 2.30 p.m. yesterday, while driving a bus in Queen's Road, near Centre Street, he knocked down a woman, Kwan Yau, 34, who received head injuries. She was taken to the Government Civil Hospital.

Sent by his parents to the Government Civil Hospital, and dying on admission, a boy named Yuen Wong, aged 15, of 4 Yan Sau Lane, had received no previous medical treatment. It appears that he was the victim of a traffic accident a few days ago, which was not reported to the police.

NEW BRITISH INDUSTRY
WOVEN ASBESTOS FABRICS

BANISHEES SENT TO GAOL
ONE MAN RETURNS FOUR TIMES

London, Aug. 10.
A new British industry which has made marked progress is the production of woven asbestos fabrics.

At a recent exhibition, examples of dyed and even printed fabrics suitable for decoration were shown, and it is anticipated that the demand for these fire-resisting materials for schools, halls, theatres, cinemas, and wherever the dangers of fire are most to be avoided, will increase rapidly as the remarkable achievements in new manufacture become better known.—British Wireless.

FINE TO CLOUDY

Pressure remains highest in the Pacific to the south-east of Japan, and is relatively low over North China and Manchuria. The typhoon is situated to the east of the Balinghai Channel (450 miles E.S.E. of Hongkong) moving N.W. Local forecast:—West and S.W. winds, moderate to fresh; fine to cloudy.

Wong Shiu, aged 35, unemployed, was charged with a breach of the Deportation Ordinance before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. He had been sent away for a period of 10 years on January 25, 1929.

Defendant pleaded that he came down to Hongkong to get a ship to take him back to the country. He said he could not get a ship in Canton as no ships would sail as the typhoon signal was up. He decided to come to Hongkong by steamer and take ship here as the vessels in the Colony were more seaworthy and larger than those in the country. Inspector W. E. Chester Woods said defendant's record bore three previous returns from banishment. Sentence of twelve months' imprisonment was imposed.

Ho Lam, aged 48, unemployed, also faced a charge of returning from 10 years' banishment imposed on June 31 last, and he likewise received twelve months' hard labour. For returning before his period of five years had expired, Ho Sze, aged 19, was given six months' hard labour. He had been sent away on July 19 last.
